

$14 Million Cut Asked In University Building

Divided Commission Vote Holds Green Bay, Kenosha Should Get Less Money

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The State Building Commission in a divided vote has upheld the insistence of one of its leading members for a reduction in the beginning investment in new University of Wisconsin campuses at Green Bay and in Kenosha. It left the door ajar, however, for a reconsideration during the next two months.

Sen. Jerris Leonard of Bayside, chairman of a University of Wisconsin subcommittee of the commission, was supported in a 5-3 commission vote late Monday on his motion to reduce the building budget for the two new schools from $26.7 million to $12.9 million.

Leonard said he does not oppose the ultimate expenditure of the requested amount, or more, and is only doubtful about the wisdom of costly initial investments on the campuses which are likely to require some years to attract substantial enrollments.

Surgery Won't Cure Ruby, Doctors Reveal

Only Hope Is in Use of Drugs for Widespread Cancer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The physician in charge of Jack Ruby's treatment said today Ruby's cancer has developed too far to be cured by surgery.

Dr. Jack Barnett said the only hope for a cure will lie in chemotherapy, which is treatment by drugs. He ruled out radiological treatment because of the widespread cancer.

Barnett is associate professor of internal medicine at Southwestern Medical School, a few steps from Parkland Hospital where Ruby was taken Friday from his jail cell.

Another Tumor

The physician also disclosed at a morning news conference that another tumor was found Monday in the pleura — the lining of the chest. He said it was the same sort of cancer found Saturday in a lymph node in Ruby's neck.

Ruby, 35, is the nondrinking, nonsmoking onetime night club operator who killed Lee Harvey Oswald, later identified by the Leonard noted that the planning for the two campuses is thus far only in the starting stages, and assured University of Wisconsin administrators that if they can prove later that he was wrong, he will support their original request. He suggested another review of the matter can be held in 30 days, if required.

Recommendation Only

The building commission action, while persuasive, is not necessarily final, in any event. Its literal effect is as a recommendation to Gov. Warren P. Knowles, who is now considering his own biennial budget recommendations to the legislature. He can modify the commission's budget proposal, in his own budget message, as he chooses.

The legislature also has the right to amend the governor's budget in any direction it chooses. Thus the University

Cosmonauts Grounded

Reds De-emphasizing Space Spending in Favor of Military

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has cut by one-third its spending this year on nonmilitary space research while increasing general military spending, Communist and Western sources said today.

Despite the space cut, which has kept Soviet cosmonauts grounded for 21 months, the Soviet Union is likely to launch two or three unmanned spacecraft to Mars next month, the informants said.

The reports could not be confirmed because of tight secrecy here around both military expenditures and space plans. Some Western diplomats cast doubt on the report of a one-third cut for space research.

This cut in an undisclosed original sum was ordered early this year, the sources said. The reason they gave was a strain on the economy caused by too many demands for limited resources. Heavy industry continues to receive the traditional high priority of the Communist regime, consumers have been promised more, and the armed forces are being modernized and strengthened.

The strain continues and it appears to be a major reason that the five-year economic plan, which should have gone into effect last Jan. 1, is still not ready. A stopgap plan for 1966 was used and another is ready for 1967.

The reported cut in space research does not rule out a manned launching next year. In fact, the sources said something spectacular has been ordered as part of activities building up to the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution next Nov. 7.

But a cutback could explain the failure of the Soviet Union to perfect space walking techniques, which their last cosmonauts pioneered in March 1965, or to develop space rendezvous methods.

Scientists might be saving money for a major step forward with larger rockets which would put the Soviet Union in the moon race with the United States.

The sources said Mars launchings are a strong possibility for the period around Jan. 4, when the earth and Mars will be in one of the favorable periods of approach.

Reds Dislike Pope's Plea

U. S. Feels Certain Extension of Truce Will Not Result

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials believe the Viet Cong are unwilling to accept Pope Paul's appeal to extend the Christmas truce in the war in Vietnam into a peace-seeking cease-fire.

"We regret that the Viet Cong have apparently rejected the sincere appeal of Pope Paul in the cause of peace," the department said in a statement issued Monday. "The Viet Cong response obviously lessens very greatly the prospects for any positive results."

The department's conclusions were drawn after a Viet Cong broadcast Saturday accused the United States of "Machiavellian and perfidious" schemes in pressing "the sinful aggression" in Vietnam.

Recovery of Ike Pleases Doctors

General Able To Leave Bed Briefly Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has recovered enough from Monday's gall bladder operation to get out of bed this morning and sit in a chair for 25 minutes, his doctors reported.

Brig. Gen. Philip W. Mallory, commanding general of Walter Reed Army Hospital, told reporters shortly after 11 a.m.: "I have just come from Gen. Eisenhower's suite and I am very happy to report that he continues to make very satisfactory progress."

Normal Response
"He has been up (out of bed) this morning and sat up in a chair for 25 minutes. He is back in bed now and is responding to all this very normally and just the way we want it."

In response to a question on whether Eisenhower would be able to leave the hospital before Christmas, as he has expressed hope of doing, Mallory replied: "We hope so but cannot say at this time."

He disclosed that gall bladder trouble had been suspected in the five-star general "a few months ago." He said Eisenhower at that time had developed symptoms possibly indicative of that condition.

He said these suspicions were confirmed by Walter Reed doctors Nov. 21 through an x-ray examination.

"Had Good Night"
"The general had a good night," Walter Reed Army Hospital reported this morning, one full day after the one and three-quarter hour operation.

"Multiple large and small gallstones were in the gallbladder which was removed," said the bulletin issued shortly after 5 p.m. Monday. These were the stones which Eisenhower jokingly had referred to as "rocks."

The former First Lady, Mamie, was staying near her husband in the executive suite at the hospital. The luxurious accommodations, otherwise known as the presidential suite, include bedrooms, a sitting room and a solarium.

When the general was wheeled back to his suite Mrs. Eisenhower, son John and brother Milton were waiting.

Appeal Against Voting Machines

MADISON (AP) — Kenosha has taken its challenge against Wisconsin's voting machine law to the State Supreme Court. The city filed the necessary court records Monday to appeal an August decision upholding the constitutionality of the state requirement that all communities over 10,000 population use voting machines.

Kenosha will have until Jan. 21 to file written arguments. The state will be given time to reply before the court hears the case.

Hortonville Youth Killed In Car Crash

Passenger in Vehicle Which Hit Abutment

Thomas Richards, 18, 216 S. Mill St., Hortonville, died at 2:48 a.m. today at New London Community Hospital, four hours after he and another Hortonville youth were injured when their car rammed a concrete abutment on a one-lane bridge on Outagamie County Trunk M, a mile north of Hortonville.

Richards' death and that of a Cassville woman Monday hiked the Wisconsin fatality toll for the year to 1,041, compared with 971 on Dec. 13 last year and 1,020 on the same date in record-breaking 1964.

Distinguishes 'Official Deception'

Court Gives Crime Fighters More Leeway

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — In careful language the Supreme Court has sanctioned limited government use of informers and undercover agents to combat crime.

That, in sum, is the essence of court's actions Monday in unclouding the convictions of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa, former union lawyer Z.T. Osborn Jr., and Duke Lee Lewis, a small-time narcotics peddler.

Claimed Trickery
But the justices moved cautiously as they endorsed, in special circumstances, government

gambits that some of them found displeasing.

Hoffa, Osborn and Lewis of Boston all claimed they had been tricked by the government: Hoffa by a paid Justice Department informer recruited from union ranks, Osborn through a tape recorder strapped to the back of a man he thought was working for him and Lewis by a federal agent posing as a marijuana customer.

But their claims did not cause the court to reverse their convictions. Hoffa's eight-year prison sentence for jury tampering was affirmed 6 to 1, Osborn's bribery conviction was upheld 8 to 1 and, in the third decision,

Lewis' narcotics conviction was affirmed 8 to 1.

The right of privacy, even against government intrusion, is protected by the prohibition the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution puts on "unreasonable searches and seizures."

However, the high court has taken varying views on whether it is an insurmountable bar against government action. "Official Deception"
Monday the court found in the circumstances of the three cases before it sufficient reason to tip the scales in favor of what Chief Justice Earl Warren called "official deception in order to gather evidence for criminal prosecutions."

Justice Potter Stewart, in the controlling opinion in the Hoffa case, took pains to point out that government informer Edward Grady Partin, a fellow Teamsters official, did not enter Hoffa's hotel suite "by force or by stealth."

Partin reported back to the government that Hoffa was trying to bribe members of a federal jury trying him in Nashville, Tenn., on a conspiracy charge.

Hoffa, said Stewart, "was not relying on the security of the hotel room; he was relying upon his misplaced confidence that Partin would not reveal his wrongdoing."

Signal Has Strange Meaning

If your partner discards an unnecessarily high card you may think that he wants you to lead the suit of his discard. This is true in some situations, but not in others — if your partner belongs in the major leagues.

West opens the jack of spades, and South wins with the queen. South leads the nine of diamonds for a finesse, and West must discard.

The average West throws the deuce of clubs because this is a card he surely doesn't need. This "safe" discard costs 760 points.

From East's point of view, the opening lead might be from a suit headed by A-J-10, in which case he may defeat the contract by returning a spade. Actually, the spade return allows South to take 11 tricks.

West can suggest that his spades are important by saving them all.

West can suggest that his spades are unimportant by discarding one at his first opportunity. An expert West would make the suggestion emphatic by discarding the ten of spades.

A sleepy East might not notice a small spade, but he is sure to notice the ten. If he is a maniac about suit preference signals, East will assume that the high spade calls for a switch to a high suit. It is unimportant in this hand since East can hardly shift to any suit but hearts.

If West and East are both major league bridge players, West will discard the ten of spades, and East will switch to the queen of hearts. The defenders then get 100 points for defeating the contract. Sandy Koufax himself could do no better.

Daily Question

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points) and the next player passes. You hold: S J 10 9 6 5 2, H A 9 8 6, D None, C 10 7 2.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two spades. Partner will probably pass, and you will have a comfortable contract. If partner has maximum value (17 or 18 points) and good spades, he will raise to three spades, and you will go on to game. You are not likely to make game unless partner can make this voluntary move.

Cold Virus Resists Treatment, 'Cure'

This is the season of the year when the American Medical Association reminds once again that you can't cure a cold.

And if anyone tries to sell you on the latest version of a so-called "cold cure" you can save your money.

Many of the classic diseases of history have succumbed in the 20th century to new medical skills and modern drugs. But the cold virus still successfully resists the best efforts of the world's combined medical research talent.

Produce Symptoms

As the years go by more and more is being learned about colds and their causes. A number of viruses produce the symptoms that most of us call a cold, possibly as many as a hundred. The true cold is an infection with one or more viruses. Bacteria are believed to be purely secondary infectors.

Current research seems to indicate that colds are harder to spread than has been thought.

Fresh colds appear to be more contagious than older ones. Children's colds probably are more contagious than those of adults. There still is much discussion among experts as to the relationship of becoming chilled or exposure to dampness to "catching" a cold.

What can you do for a cold?

Relieve Discomfort

No specific treatment, so far available, is effective against the cold virus. Any treatment is directed toward relief of the discomfort of runny nose, watering eyes, sore throat, slight fever and the other symptoms of the cold. Penicillin does not stop the virus, but may be prescribed by your physician for secondary bacterial infections. Bed rest, or at least inactivity, is helpful. Your physician may suggest mild medication to help relieve the discomfort.

Cold vaccines have yet to be proved of much value. There is no evidence that any particular foods, vitamin supplements, special clothing or exposure to sunlight or fresh air have any effect on colds.

If a cold persists or seems unusually severe, see your doctor. Colds are great imitators and the early symptoms can mimic those of other more serious infections. Recurring colds may not be colds at all, but may be allergic attacks that require medical attention.

Soothe Cold Knees

No matter how high the boots get, the hemlines seem to go higher and this leaves the knees where they have always been—exposed to the cold weather. Soothe reddened, roughened knees with good quality witch hazel. Help overcome the dryness by applying olive oil.

Women at Ease When Dressed to Please

The less time you have for it, the more you need it!

Any doctor will tell you that "loafing"—whether it means doing something pleasurable... or doing nothing at all, pleasantly—is good for your health because it provides a break in routine, and reduces tension. Loafing allows you pause to be refreshed.

Housewives are discovering that, in addition to being healthful, loafing can actually be good for the morale. A little time set aside for reading or a short nap can result in a more efficiently organized day in which you return to your tasks renewed.

Time to Unwind

Business men, executives and other men with demanding careers realize the necessity of having "time-off" to unwind and are generally more careful than housewives about setting time aside for leisure. Consequently, their loafing is of a specific kind: they play golf, go sailing, or just rake the leaves around the house. Loafing, in this case, simply means doing something different from what one ordinarily does. Men feel relaxed too, when they lounge in old clothes, don't shave, or actually get messed by working around the house.

Women, on the other hand, need to feel they look their best in order to be at ease. Psychologists tell us that what a woman wears has a direct influence on her mood. Dressing up can boost morale. For women, relaxation is more complex because of the demands of her schedule—the old bromide about "women's work is never done."

Hostess Elegance

To enhance your rating as a hostess this holiday season are party pajamas featuring a pullover top striped in twinkling black and white sequins and black crepe culottes. Or for entertaining and relaxing luxuriously, you might want to slip into a satin brocade hostess coat, in antique gold or blue. The pants-suit and the one-piece jumpsuit are both popular with women who want to make the most of their at-home hours.

A gray pinstripe pants-suit with quilted jacket has such unexpected touches as a rhinestone-buckled silver belt and a snowy white blouse in Arnel and Fortrel blend, with lacy ruffles at the neckline, front and wrists. The ease of "fatigues" and the elegance of high fashion are combined in a jumpsuit of coral red quilted nylon tricot.

Something Special

But whether you feel most comfortable in a jumpsuit, pants-suit or hostess coat, the difference of a few minutes preparation and care will always be felt. Instead of a sandwich snatched on the run, why not try a casual, but planned, lunch? If care is taken in serving it, you become your own guests. If you're going to spend the evening reading or watching television, instead of slumping tiredly into a chair, slip into a long robe and apply a light make-up and lipstick.

Again, this will make something special out of this time.

Art of Loafing

When tension really mounts, and there seems no real way to escape, one answer may be to call a halt and take a three-day weekend with all chores suspended. Staying at a local hotel or motel, when possible (where all services are provided) is a sure pick-me-up. Too drastic? Too expensive? It may be just what your doctor will order!

But, before this becomes necessary, how about rediscovering the "fine art" of loafing; taking things easy in your own home, and enjoying some time off each day—every week. You can convert just "time-off" (which may make you less tired, but not refresh you) into "leisure" by changing from work clothes into an elegant lounging robe or at-home slacks set.

Fashion Concept

A famous lady of Haute Couture once observed: "One of the most baffling points of inconsistency in many otherwise elegant women is the way they completely neglect their appearance during the hours they spend in their own homes—which is the very time and place they ought to be most attractive."

"At home" clothes, a new concept in fashion, have proved most popular with women who don't want to just sack out, but who do want to make the most of their off hours. In response to this new trend, one firm has designed a new line of casual clothes for nothing more than doing nothing at home—elegantly.

Loafing differs from other forms of recreation which depend on the fact that they take place outside the home for their value. The pleasures of loafing are more immediate because of the intimacy of their setting. It is a time for catching up on pleasure, reading, listening to music, favorite hobbies, conversation... or just time to muse. This is necessary time physically, and beneficial time psychologically. It is wise to prepare for it as you would for any formal pleasure by both feeling and looking your best.

White House Glows With Trimmings of the Yuletide

WASHINGTON (AP)—Christmas at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue: the whiff of cedar, glow of tiny white bulbs, reflections of popcorn garlands in a mirror, a chandelier laced with holly, banquet tables crested with pine.

It's the White House ready for Christmas entertaining. Reporters were given a special preview Monday. Decorations center around a fat 20-foot high balsam fir which towers to the ceiling of the Blue Room. Gingerbread cookies — some plastic, some real — candied fruit, toy soldiers and straw snowflakes hang from its boughs.

On every mantle, there is pine and holly, and gold, silver or blue or red bulbs. Doors sprout chains of cedar. Red and white roses and carnations fill spare tabletops.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson added at least three new touches to the traditional White House decorations: a 13-foot-high, gold-colored papiermache creche in the East Room, a mirror decorated with felt symbols of the 12-days of Christmas and a wreath made of flowers from 50 states.

This is the first floor of the executive mansion. Upstairs, in the first family's living quarters, there are also decorations. The Johnsons plan to have a scotch pine decorated with popcorn and cranberry strings.

Use ZIP Code to Help Relieve Mail Deluge

BY SYLVIA PORTER

This coming Monday, Dec. 19, will mark the peak for Christmas mail, but already, moans a U.S. Post Office spokesman in Washington, "the 1966 log-jam is the biggest and worst ever."

What's more, the log-jam could reach fantastic proportions: If we have a siege of bad weather crippling mail distribution in major cities; and or if we don't get our Christmas cards and packages in the mail in a hurry.

These stark statistics by themselves tell the tale. In December alone, we are sending each other a record 3.5 billion Christmas cards. With packages, Christmas catalogs and other mail added in, the December total of mail is slated to reach a staggering 8.5 billion pieces. This would be at least 500 million more than last Christmas and would bring total 1966 mail volume to 78 billion pieces. As an indication of the U.S. mail's role in commerce, an estimated $4,000,000,000 (trillion) goes through the mail each year — in payments, purchase orders, contracts, etc.

Clearly, there is nothing you can do to prevent bad weather. And the deadlines for gift packages and greeting cards sent to distant states (Dec. 5 and Dec. 10) have passed.

mail will be cards and packages sent within states and to nearby states, and the deadlines for these are tomorrow and Thursday (Dec. 14 and 15). Simply by respecting these deadlines, you can help get your mail through in time.

A second thing you can do is to use the ZIP Code on every piece of mail you send. With tens of thousands of extra, inexperienced mail-sorters on duty for the Christmas rush, ZIP coding is a key means to speed the complicated mail-sorting process.

A third tip the Post Office offers us is to use 5 cent instead of 4 cent stamps on Christmas cards. This will assure that your cards go first class and will be forwarded if necessary.

A fourth simple, but often astoundingly neglected, way we can get our packages through safely is to wrap them securely. Notes a Post Office official: "you'd be surprised how many people will put a cake in a shirt box, wrap it in tissue paper and then expect it to reach its destination intact."

Finally, a Post Office tip that was new to me is to enclose an extra address card inside the package. Should the wrapping get lost along the line, the extra address card would make sure your gift doesn't end up in the dead letter office.

Mechanical Sorting
After all these years of our mounting complaints about and the Post Office's alibis for our inadequate mail service, we obviously are facing another spectacular snafu. What then, over the longer range, are the chances for a substantial improvement in the service?

They are "fair — ultimately." The Post Office is now in the midst of a major transition from hand mail sorting to mechanical mail sorting, from railroad transportation to trucks and airplanes, from outdated facilities to modern facilities.

The Post-Crescent A 18

A two-year $100 million mechanization is underway to link 75 big Post Offices in major cities with computers and to install optical scanners and other modern devices to sort mail. On Jan. 1, 235,000 users of 2nd and 3rd class mail will be required to ZIP Code all mail, eliminating a half-dozen or more separate sortings before mail reaches its destination.

As for the costs of these improvements, the new Congress almost certainly will be asked to vote new increases in postal rates to help cover them and to slash the Post Office's anticipated deficit of more than $1 billion this year.

Meanwhile, brace yourself: our mail service probably will get worse before it gets better. And those of us who live in cities with the nation's most horrible traffic snarls will have to settle for the nation's most horrible mail service.

Main Breaks In Indiana, Water Dirtied

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — It was back to boiling water for drinking and cooking after a break in this city's $2.8-million, three-year-old water system.

City Controller O. U. Sullivan issued the need for indefinite boiling against possible contamination Sunday about the time a 24-hour rupture in the main at the city's major pumping station was repaired.

Sullivan said the break in the main was only a few feet from the Wabash River and seepage of river water into the city system had occurred.

City School Supt. J. Russell Hiatt said all public schools and most parochial schools would be closed until the all-safe was given. He said the schools had no facilities for boiling water.

Eight National Guard trucks with fresh water were stationed around the city of 48,000 residents.

Mayor's Brother Caught in Illinois Gambling Raid

EAST DUBUQUE, Ill. (AP) — Four men were freed on bond Sunday after being arrested in a gambling raid Saturday night at a lounge owned by the East Dubuque mayor's brother.

A dozen FBI agents raided the Hi-Hat Lounge and arrested Melvin A. Vanderah, the mayor's brother, and three others. Agents said they confiscated a roulette wheel, dice and blackjack tables.

Arrested with Vanderah were Melvin H. Kirk and John Knupp, both of East Dubuque, and Lester J. Yutz of Dubuque, Iowa. They were charged with violating federal bans on interstate travel in aid of racketeering.

Police said Vanderah was convicted of gambling in 1959 and 1963.

New Manager Appointed by Air Wisconsin

Preston Wilbourne Receives Promotion From Traffic Post

Officials of Air Wisconsin Inc. Monday announced the promotion of Preston Wilbourne to general manager of the Appleton-based commuter airline.

Wilbourne, 41, has served as the airline's general traffic manager since May of this year. He joined the firm in October, 1965.

Preston Wilbourne

The announcement was made after a meeting of company officers and the executive committee. Officials said Wilbourne will immediately assume general management responsibilities as a result of his appointment to the newly-created post.

North Carolina Native

Wilbourne is a native of Erwin, N.C. After graduating from high school in his hometown, he spent five years in the U.S. Air Force.

He was discharged from the Air Force in 1948 and went into the travel agency business, serving as manager of Bluefield Auto Club, Bluefield, W. Va.

In May, 1950, Wilbourne was hired by Piedmont Airlines, Winston-Salem, N.C., a local service carrier with routes covering the southeastern states.

He was promoted to director of tariffs and schedules at Piedmont in 1957. In 1962 Wilbourne developed a "quick reference" timetable which represented a break from conventional timetables.

Control System

The new manager also devised a space control system for Piedmont which provided maximum use of available seats on the firm's aircraft.

Last week Wilbourne was appointed to an airline problem study committee during the National Air Transport Conference in Las Vegas, Nev. He will

Officials Agree On Extension of College Avenue

Procedural Error Affects Financing Expressway Link

Appleton and Outagamie County officials reached accord Monday and apparently subdued a running controversy over the proposed E. College Avenue extension.

The project, tentatively scheduled for 1967, represents the first leg of the secondary portion of the Tri-County Expressway.

The extension would start at Buchanan Street on the city's south side and continue east to a point south of Kaukauna.

A dispute recently developed when the county highway commission indicated the city would have to purchase right-of-way for that portion of the expressway route within the Appleton corporate limits.

Inconsistent Policy

City officials retorted the county's position was inconsistent with its past policy and requested an audit of all highway department projects over the past 10 years to determine whether the city was getting its share of improvements and financial aid.

County Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson told the city delegation there had been a misunderstanding on the procedure to be followed in putting E. College Avenue on the federal aids secondary highway system.

Brownson explained although the Appleton Council did pass a resolution putting E. College on the system, it failed to take Walters Avenue and Newberry Street off as required.

Procedural Error

Although the procedural error had not been caught by the state highway department, it was serious enough to affect the financing of the proposed expressway and right-of-way acquisition, Brownson explained.

However, Brownson and Ald.

Aid Predicted for Drivers With Cancelled Insurance

Clearing House Allocation Is Forecast by State Commissioner

State Insurance Commissioner appointee of Gov. Warren P. Knowles, said that he believes that within the next two years the establishment of a central clearing house in the state for the allocation of casualty coverage of automobile drivers whose policies have been cancelled by insurance companies.

Referring to the issue which was raised continually during the past gubernatorial campaign by Democratic Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, Haase, a Republican about 35,000 or 40,000 policies at most. This idea is workable."

He noted that once a driver suffers a cancellation of such insurance, it is extremely difficult for him to obtain new coverage without paying new-rooming rates. This would solve that problem for drivers with good records, Haase said.

The number of companies guilty of such practices is relatively small, Haase said. And the firms most guilty account for a relatively large portion of the cancellations without cause, he said.

Haase also suggested that the plan could be extended to cover fire insurance throughout the state. Many companies draw a line across Wisconsin at Highways 8 or 29 and refuse to insure north of that line, he said.

Servicing Costs

The main reasons for such practices are servicing costs, he explained.

The fire insurance idea, conceived to insure coverage of buildings in the core area of Milwaukee with justifiable property values, should be expanded to cover the northwoods as well, he said.

Haase, former speaker of the Assembly and member from Marinette, was appointed head of the state insurance department a year ago by Knowles.

Rule Suspension Sought

Board's Integrity Is Issue In County Farm Land Sale

An issue, this morning, which some Outagamie County supervisors said represented the "integrity" of the board came out on the short end of a 32 to 12 vote as they approved suspending board rules which stipulate appraisal and bid-advertising before selling county-owned property.

The rule suspension required a two-thirds majority. Three

Austin, Babbitt, Bartz, Breiling, Conrad, De Bruin, Diestler, Dietz, Gillespie, Greisch, Grunwaldt, Heenan, Jens, Jimos, Kavanaugh, Kemps, Klein, Kozietzke, Kostka, Kroes, Lenz, Miller, Pelton, Helble, Roepcke, Root, Steger, Tillman, Verfurth, J. W. Weyenberg, Weyers, Esler.

Opposed were: Fischer, Fredericks, Hoolihan, Kloes, Mares, Schreiter, Schwartz, Spierings, Van Dyke, Welch, Robert Weyenberg, Wussow.

Absent from the morning session were: Bubolz, De La Hunt, Williams.

Supervisors were absent from the morning session. The issue was an executive committee resolution asking board approval for sale of 28.9 acres at the county farm to Fox River Tractor Co. under a land contract agreement.

Formal Request

The resolution said the company formally asked to buy the land at $2,000 per acre to be paid over a 10-year period. The sale would total $57,800.

Included in the resolution was a clause to suspend the board's ruling which states that an appraisal of county property must be taken before such land is sold. The same rule also states that such a sale must be advertised and bids taken.

As the morning session ended, supervisors had voted to suspend the rules but recessed before voting on the sale itself.

Indications Favorable

Feelings expressed during the morning, however, and the rule suspension itself indicated that the sale would probably be okayed this afternoon.

Strong feelings mixed with some confusion over parliamentary procedure were evident.

King Veterans Home To Get Nursing Center

State Building Commission OKs $3 Million Project; Rejects $4.5 Million Hospital

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The state Building Commission Monday approved the appropriation of $3 million for a second intensive nursing care building at the Grand Army Home at King.

At the same time, however, the commission denied a request of the state Department of Veterans Affairs for the approval of the expenditure of $4.5 million for the construction of a new hospital to replace one constructed in 1927.

In denying the request by a 5 to 3 vote, the commission noted department director John Moses' statement that the present hospital building is sound although old-dated, that present needs would not fill the new facility, and conflicts between state experts as to the completion time needed for the structure.

Four Year Estimate

Moses said that the hospital, needed to prepare for the onrush of World War I veterans now starting to make use of the state facility, would take about four years to complete from drawing board to occupancy.

State engineer Ralph Culbertson, in answer to queries from Commission Secretary Jerry Emmer, estimated that the completion time would be about three years.

If that is the case, Moses said, the facility could be delayed. But he advised against it, noting that the existing structure is "not in tune with modern medical practices and needs."

It is possible that federal funds could be used to finance a portion of the hospital, Moses said, if an existing federal program is extended beyond its expiration date two years from now, and if a wing of the hospital is designed for intensive hospitalized nursing care.

The federal program will also finance about $1.2 million of the $3 million costs of the nursing care building approved. The building, with some first floor modifications, will be based on the same plans as are being used to construct a $2.8 million nursing care facility on the Army Home grounds now.

Use Same Plan

Both facilities will have 200 bed capacities when completed. The same plans are being used, Moses said, to speed development of plans of the second facility to insure federal participation in the project.

Using the same plans, he noted, will allow the application for federal funds to be submitted to the U.S. Veterans Administration within the next few months.

The nursing care administered at the home in the new buildings will be mainly geriatric care, he noted. But all types of illnesses and physical problems are treated at the state facility, he said.

After the presentation, Moses described the present hospital building at the "bottleneck" of the home. The capacity of the medical center has been expanded from 75 to 96 beds, he said, but it slows the workings

Funds to be Used for Paving

Outagamie County officials made an informal commitment Monday to provide $100,000 toward reconstruction of College Avenue in downtown Appleton.

The roadway is on the federal aid secondary highway system and eligible for assistance.

A resolution earmarking money for county participation in the $400,000 paving project was to be voted on by the Outagamie County Board today.

Supv. Sylvester Esler, board chairman, and Supv. Ervin Conradt, chairman of the board's highway committee, told a delegation of Appleton officials Outagamie County would lend financial assistance to the reconstruction program.

Attending Officials

Also attending the courthouse meeting were some members of the board's executive committee — along with Mayor George Buckley, Ald. Roy Pointer (14th) Planner Walter Rasmussen, Works Director Frank Keuler and City Atty. David Geenen, representing the city.

Agreement was reached following a verbal bout in which the Appleton delegation repeatedly reminded supervisors the city was paying more than half the annual county budget.

Highway Commissioner Clarence Bronson said nearly 350 miles of roads are maintained in Outagamie County, while only about 10 miles of the county trunk system are in Appleton.

City representatives said they would cooperate with the county on mutual problems and financing but felt in the case of the College Avenue reconstruction, Outagamie County also had a stake in the project.

City's Tax Base

"This secondary highway which passes through our downtown represents a good share of the city's tax base," Pointer declared. "It is helping the city pay more than half of the county operation budget every year."

The College Avenue reconstruction will cost close to $1 million including paving, sewer construction and new lighting. Outagamie County was being asked to share in the expense of the paving only — the $100,000 representing about one-fourth the cost.

In previous contacts between the two governmental units, the door was left open by the county and state to provide aid for the avenue repaving.

Outagamie County participation in the project on the heaviest traveled roadway in the entire county would be a deviation from past county policy with regard to highway systems passing through Appleton.

Appleton Excluded

However, Appleton officials claimed the county had employed the same policy in other

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A generous share of a building program for the next two years within the state university system was earmarked Monday by the state building commission for Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh as the commission approved building fund requests for submission to the 1967 legislature.

The commission approved a $3,389,000 proposal for the construction of a new physical education and health building on the Oshkosh campus, and a combined classroom and nursing education building at a cost of about $1,913,000.

The physical education center construction budget was trimmed somewhat by the state department of administration, with the approval of the commission, as a result of new enrollment projections that have approved by the legislature.

UW-GB Enrollment

The planned development of a northeastern Wisconsin branch campus of the University of Wisconsin at Green Bay is expected to have the effect of relieving enrollment pressures at Oshkosh considerably.

The school administration had asked for authority to build the new classroom and nursing education buildings separately, but the commission decided to join them as a means of saving ground space.

Campus space at Oshkosh is a problem because it is closely hemmed in by residential properties, officials explained. The commission's planning calls for the absorption of the new building by the nursing program of the university, if it grows as expected.

Serve "Indefinitely"

Gerald Emmer of the department of administration staff said the $3,389,000 proposal for the physical education building would provide facilities for the school that would serve "indefinitely." The university had asked for $3,774,800, on the basis of enrollment studies two years with the approval of the commission, as a result of new enrollment projections that have approved by the legislature.

Twin Cities Eye Little Kellett Committee

Study Recommended For Improvement of Winnebago County

NEENAH — A "little Kellett committee" to study possible improvements in the administration of Winnebago County and Neenah and Menasha was suggested by a member of the state task force on economy in government.

Abbott Byfield, president of the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Kellett Commission, spoke of the state governmental reorganization efforts by a citizen group to members of the chamber's governmental division this morning in the Valley Inn.

Byfield pointed out that state spending amounts to only 20 cents of every dollar expended by all governmental units. "For every dollar spent in Madison, some $4 is spent by the 1,800 individual units of government in the state."

He said a study group could be utilized to control expenditures on the local level.

The Kimberly-Clark Corp. executive discussed the achievements and conflicts which have come out of the Kellett Commission recommendations for streamlining state government.

Opposition

Noting there has been some opposition to the proposals by some state departments and skepticism by newspapers, he predicted the committee would turn out to be "more durable than the conservation department or even the press."

He said that more attention is given to the committee's setbacks than to its successful ventures, comparing it to the notice given to divorces over marriages. The department of transportation was one unit distinguished by Byfield as "working hand in glove" with the committee.

Byfield said a commission subcommittee would meet Wednesday in Madison with the conservation department in an attempt to iron out difficulties.

The proposal to create a natural resources co-ordinating committee and to oversee the conservation and resource development departments met with considerable opposition last week.

Continuing officers include Sherman Frinak and Henry Scheig as treasurer and assistant treasurer, respectively, and Mrs. William Ducklow and Mrs. Harold OrNSTein as secretary and assistant secretary, respectively.

The board also voted to increase the number of members from 15 to 18. Lloyd Paul succeeds Harvey Priebe, who completed two three-year terms. Menasha Town Holding Out for Bigger Reduction MENASHA — The Menasha town board held its ground on the proposed $4 million Neenah school budget, saying the $75,000 pared from the proposed expenditures wasn't a big enough cut.

Supv. Robert Wisner, who will carry the town's 182 votes into the public hearing next Monday evening, was directed to cast a negative vote on the school budget if the expenditures are left unchanged.

Both Wisner and Supv. Frederick Miller said they felt the budget was still too high when Chairman Roland Kampo asked for the consensus of the board. 182 Votes

The town has 17.6 per cent of the equalized value of the Neenah Joint School District and 182 of the total 1,030 votes involved. Neenah has 67.7 per cent of the value and holds 699 votes. Each Neenah alderman controls 70 votes. The remaining 149 votes belong to the towns of Neenah, Vinland and Clayton.

OSHKOSH — Arthur A. Lee, 54, Oshkosh, a Kimberly-Clark employee, died in his garage Monday night. Lee was apparently repairing his car and died accidentally of carbon monoxide poisoning.

The auxiliary served refreshments after the meeting.

Appleton Bank Plans Addition

Northern State to Add Three Drive-Up Teller Windows

Three new drive-up teller windows will be added to the Northern State Bank, 402 E. Wisconsin Ave., in an expansion project which will add approximately 3,000 square feet of space to the bank building.

The teller windows, which will be covered with a protective canopy, will be a part of the project which will feature the addition of indoor teller windows in the new portion of the bank building, the construction of a conference room, and a fire protected vault.

The new inside teller windows will be in a one story air-conditioned fireproof masonry structure.

The basement of the new structure will be used for storage space.

The building is to be constructed of brick, steel and precast concrete. Heating and air-conditioning will be supplied from a roof top unit.

Construction of the new facility is planned after the first of the year, and completion is scheduled for May.

Architects for the project are George G. Narovec and Associates of Appleton.

Menasha Salaries Might be Made Public Tomorrow

MENASHA — The portion of the city employee salary ordinances which established pay schedules for policemen and firemen remained under wraps in the city offices today, but Mayor Kenneth Holmes said he may make it public Wednesday.

The mayor said bargaining sessions with policemen and firemen are scheduled for tonight with the two groups themselves getting their first glimpses of the pay provisions.

The mayor continued to insist that the provisions of the ordinance, even though enacted by the common council nearly a week ago, should be withheld from publication until they have been shown to the police and fire department union negotiators.

School Board Won't Reopen Salary Talks

'67-'68 Schedule Set Despite AEA Pleas of Change

Negotiations of the 1967-68 teacher salary schedule will not be reopened for discussion, the Appleton Board of Education decided Monday.

The proposal to reopen the discussions was made earlier this fall by the Appleton Education Association (AEA), who told the board that conditions have changed since July, when the salary schedule was approved by the board and AEA.

Under terms of agreement between the board and the AEA, the beginning salaries in each classification were increased $200. The maximum salary on the bachelor degree was increased by $196 and the maximum on the masters, by $460.

The minimum salary for a bachelors degree is $5,400, maximum, $8,598; minimum for masters, $5,800 and maximum, $9,596.

Bids Awarded

The resolution not to reopen discussions was made by the professional improvement committee of the board, headed by Dr. Roy Whitney.

In other business, the board awarded bids for state and pool folding partitions, seven classroom folding partitions and gym folding partitions for Highlands Elementary School.

School Equipment Consultants received the stage and pool bid for their base bid of $4,732, and gym partitions for $7,720. School Interiors was awarded the classroom partitions bid for $19,625.

Though the latter two figures were not the low bids, other contractors did not meet required specifications.

The board also approved the sale of Elm Tree School, which will be sold on the best terms available, and authorized the City of Appleton to take all of the necessary steps to implement such a sale.

Appleton owns 48 per cent and Hortonville, 52 per cent of the school. Hortonville has been renting the building for the past few years but vacated it this year.

Charles Buchanan, president of the board, appointed Kenneth Sager, a board member, to study the possibility of organizing an education council which would serve as a "sounding board."

Communications Role

The suggestion for such a council was made by Sager, who felt that a council composed of from 9 to 15 community people, including two from the board, could serve as a communications media between the board and the community.

The resignation of Mrs. Patricia Kimmell was also approved, as was the new contract for Mrs. Marilyn Gilbert.

Mrs. Kimmell, a French instructor at the high school, will leave at the end of the semester. Mrs. Gilbert, contracted for Richmond Elementary School, is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, and began her duties Monday.

Townsmen Living on Private Roads Need Snow Shovels

MENASHA — Townsmen living on private roads will have to get out their snow shovels if they want easy access to their homes after Jan. 1.

The Menasha town board decided the practice of plowing snow from private drives had gone on long enough and felt the job should be placed in the hands of the property owners.

Some residents have had their private roads plowed by the town free of charge for several decades.

Chairman Roland Kampo and the two supervisors agreed the town should stop picking up the tab for plowing snow on private land, but Kampo urged the other board members to delay the action until next winter to give the residents enough time to make other arrangements.

Town Atty. Everett Stecker said the town had no legal right to enter private property and by plowing the snow, it was working for individuals and not the town. He added the plowing couldn't be placed on the tax rolls.

The residents living on such roads will be notified that after the first of the year they'll have to look for some other arrangement to keep their drives clear of snow.

UW-Fox Valley Center To Share $7,695 Grant

The University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center and Madison campus sessions have been set for March 9-10, April 13-14, May 11-12 and June 8-9.

Among areas to be covered by the program are a review of the nurse's role in current psychiatric practice, building therapeutic nurse-patient relationships, the care of patients with particular psychiatric problems and resources for the treatment and rehabilitation of the mentally ill.

Madison campus sessions have been set for March 9-10, April 13-14, May 11-12 and June 8-9.

Among areas to be covered by the program are a review of the nurse's role in current psychiatric practice, building therapeutic nurse-patient relationships, the care of patients with particular psychiatric problems and resources for the treatment and rehabilitation of the mentally ill.

The grant, announced by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, is for two eight-day courses in "Principles of Psychiatric Nursing Practice" to be offered at Menasha and Madison. Both courses will begin in March, 1967.

Mrs. Janet Nusinoff, assistant professor of nursing in the UW Extension department of nursing, will be principal instructor for the courses. Mrs. Nusinoff, who is based at the Fox Valley Center, is UW Extension nursing program coordinator for northeastern Wisconsin.

The course she will teach is a continuation of a similar program for nurses in county mental hospitals that was held earlier this year in Madison, Green Bay and Eau Claire. Nurses from 20 county mental institutions attended the earlier courses.

'More Knowledge' Next spring's courses will be aimed at giving nurses "more knowledge and developing attitudes and understandings essential to contemporary psychiatric nursing," according to Mrs. Nusinoff.

Under the terms of the HEW grant, the U.S. Public Health Service's Division of Nursing will pay the tuition for a total of 45 nurses enrolled in the courses. Each participant will also receive a $12 per day stipend.

Day-long course sessions have been scheduled for March 2-3, April 6-7, May 4-5 and June 1-2 at the UW Fox Valley Center.

UW Center Expansion to Await Vocational Decision

Valley School Officials Told to Seek Temporary Office Space

The tenuity of future vocational schooling in the Fox Cities Monday night caused trustees of the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Center to proceed cautiously with an investigation of office space shortage at the center.

Trustees advised center administrators to explore the cost and feasibility of temporary or rented structures in lieu of approving a major expansion, which trustees indicated, would very likely come at a time when both Winnebago and Outagamie counties are attempting to resolve the current vocational school district issue.

The state was recently divided into vocational-technical education districts. Winnebago County south of Neenah-Menasha was originally attached to the Fond du Lac district by the reorganization. Later action changed the boundaries, attaching all of Winnebago County to a district with Outagamie, Calumet and Waupaca counties.

Not Expedient
Orin King, Oshkosh, chairman of the center board of trustees, said, "It is difficult for me to say anything about this campus without knowing what is going to happen with the vocational school."

Russell DeLaHunt, trustee and Outagamie County Board supervisor from Kaukauna said, "Politically, it just isn't expedient to talk expansion now."

"Acting dean of the center, Alan Bussel, said in some cases, three faculty members are now sharing office space designed to accommodate two instructors."

There are 53 full and part-time faculty members, Bussel said. Some of them are sharing the same desk, the dean added.

While center administrators cited a need for office space, there was no immediate indication that additional classroom space was needed.

This year's enrollment at the school fell short of expectations, they said. Seven hundred students were expected to enroll but only 647 were on hand for the start of the first term.

Bussel cited recent military draft increases as a reason for the small enrollment.

Trustees agree that enrollment at the center may not increase greatly. DeLaHunt said the highest number of students will probably enroll in 1970.

A new state University in Green Bay and the possibility of a new vocational school somewhere in the Fox Cities were also listed as reasons for careful planning in expansion of the center on Midway Road in the Town of Menasha.

Trustees instructed administrators to investigate the use of existing buildings in the area, including homes, for additional office space. Trailer homes, internal partitioning for offices and temporary buildings will also be considered for housing faculty offices.

Board Integrity Is Issue in Farm Land Sale

tary procedure should be followed resulted in more than one hour's debate on the property sale.

Supervisors opposing suspension of the rule did not take issue with the sale of the property or the potential buyer, they said. They did, however, question the authority of the county board to establish prices and sell property without going through channels previously agreed upon by the board.

Defeats Purpose

Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, said, "The danger of suspending a rule is that it defeats the purpose of the rule and the purpose of a rule is to maintain some integrity in our dealings."

"This property does not belong to the county board but is the property of every taxpayer in the county," Kloes said.

The property is immediately east of U.S. 41 on the 400-acre county farm, north of W. Wisconsin Avenue.

Vice Chairman Marvin E. Babbitt, Seymour, favored suspending the rule and said, "The land is sort of land-locked and the only one we will probably sell it to is the Fox Valley Tractor."

Make Access

Chairman Sylvester Esler said a railroad spur would be put through the property, if the sale is approved. The spur would provide access to the rest of the county land not included in the controversial plot.

"What we are talking about isn't any industry at all," said Supv. John R. Schreiter, Appleton. "It's the integrity of the county board."

"I want to go back and tell my people we sold this on an appraisal price and not a price established by this board," Schreiter said. "Are we establishing a precedent that any other corporation is entitled to the same agreement?" he asked.

Despite strong opposition, more than two thirds of the supervisors felt the rule should be suspended. A second motion to refer the matter back to committee for appraisal was defeated as well.

In other action during the morning board session, supervisors:

—Referred to the health, education and institutions committee a report recommending formation of a county health department. Representatives of the Appleton League of Women Voters and United Community Services spoke on behalf of the recommendation.

—Approved establishing a centralized purchasing agency for coordinating purchase of all items by county departments except some highway department purchases. The purchasing and general accounts committee will hereafter handle buying.

—Approved a new contract between the county highway department and the County Highway Employees Union Local 455 of American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees AFL-CIO.

Hilbert Man Killed by Falling Tree

HILBERT — Roy M. Knapp, 55, route 1, Hilbert, was killed instantly about 10:30 a.m. Monday while felling a tree.

According to Calumet County Coroner Le Roy Hughes, Knapp was thrown about eight feet and died instantly from a crushing skull fracture, crushed chest and possible internal injuries.

The incident occurred in the woods on the Walter Olp farm, located about one mile southeast of Potter on County Trunk Y. Knapp and Olp were working together in felling the tree.

The body was brought to the Calumet Memorial Hospital by the Weiting Ambulance. Funeral arrangements are pending at the Weiting Funeral Home, Brillion, awaiting the release of Knapp's son, Edwin, 26, from the Calumet Hospital.

The younger Knapp was injured in an auto accident about 2:10 a.m. Monday.

Roy Pointer (14th) and City Planner Walter Rasmussen did not agree on the width of the proposed expressway link to Kaukauna.

Pointer, council president and chairman of the city's street-sanitation committee, pushed for an urban type highway construction, while Brownson said the proposed roadway would have to be much wider to meet state and federal regulations.

Recently, the county requested the council budget $132,000 for 1967 which represents the city's proportionate cost of purchasing expressway right-of-way within the city limits.

Objection Point

"We objected to this because the county has paid for the acquisitions when highways pass through parts of other communities in the county," Pointer said. "After all, Appleton does pay more than half the bill every year for financing county government and the highway program."

communities in Outagamie County in the past while excluding Appleton to a degree.

At first, Conradt suggested the city proceed, with the county considering appropriating $100,000 in its 1968 budget. Pointer replied the city would need the funds by the fall of 1967 and sought a more convenient arrangement.

At this point, Esler suggested the $100,000 be taken temporarily from the W. College Avenue overhead construction fund, citing it contained close to $175,000.

Restore Funds

"I think we could agree to providing the city with $100,000 when the money is needed, and restore the amount to the overhead fund at a later date," Esler said.

Air Wisconsin began operations in August, 1965. Wilbourne joined the company three months later.

Steady Increase

A total of 694 passengers were flown on Air Wisconsin aircraft in September, 1965. Passenger counts have increased steadily since that time. During November of this year, 2,141 passengers were carried by the line's four aircraft. Wilbourne predicted Air Wisconsin should reach the 3,000-passenger per month mark shortly after the first of the year.

The firm uses three De Havilland Doves and a De Havilland DH 600 jet prop. The jet prop was put into service Nov. 10.

Wilbourne will direct a staff of 26, including 11 pilots, five mechanics and 10 traffic personnel.

Air Wisconsin will continue to concentrate on serving Fox Cities-Chicago passengers. Wilbourne said, although studies of potential expansion are being made. Arrangements being made include baggage and ticket agreements with major airlines.

of the home as all admissions must pass through the hospital for examination. After being assigned to housing at the home, many members are immediately returned to the hospital for care, he said.

Speed Admission

The new facility would have allowed faster admission and treatment of members while allowing for expansion due to the aging population of World War I veterans, according to Moses.

Completed Oct. 24

The first facility of the new building program, the central service building, constructed at a cost exceeding $900,000 was completed Oct. 24. The administration is in the process of moving into the quarters at the present time. Open house is expected after Jan. 1, according to home authorities.

Ground breaking for the first intensive care unit, a five-story nursing home with an anticipated cost of $2.9 million, was made June 30 with a target completion date of mid-May, 1966. The original plan was for a $2.5 million facility but delaying the program one year increased the estimated cost $400,000.

Tunnel Connected

The nursing home under construction will be connected to the central service building with a tunnel, which also will connect to the Burns-Clemmens Infirmary. Construction cost is estimated at $54,000.

Six duplex cottages, to be constructed on the shores of George Lake, is programmed to start in April with construction costs estimated at $108,000. The new facilities will replace some of the older cottages being used by married couples, authorities said.

Electrical and telephone cables for the southern portion of the home grounds are being placed underground at an estimated cost of $117,000.

Fast Pace

"The building program is going at break-neck pace and in another five years you won't recognize the Grand Army Home," Arden Borden, home commander, said.

The home is also scheduled for a $1 million sewer and water plant installation, according to authorities.

Jingo Applauds Focus But Boos Skip-Schedule

Should Settle Down to One Time Spot, Suggests Less Competitive, Earlier Hour

If advertising pressures are such that a setup similar to that used with "Hank" last season is alternate suggestion. Forget impossible, then Jingo has an about the so-called prime time spot. Chances are, the appeal of "Focus" will not be great enough to pull viewers away from the network shows anyway.
Rather, why not place the series in a spot where the competition is not as intense, affiliate's policy on its public but still at a time when most persons are at home? Example: the 4:30-5 p.m. or 5-5:30 only locally-produced, prime time public affairs series to Jingo suspects that the interest appear on a Green Bay channel. In such rebroadcasts as "Northwest Prior to this season, the Passage" and "Zorro," shown series was run in the same spot at those times, is not very high. Each week, last year, it pre-empted "Hank" on Friday night 5 has received orders from nights. For the current session, the head office at Louisville, however, Channel 5 decided to Ky., to show the series in prime skip around from night to night, time. But perhaps Louisville pre-empting different shows would listen to an appeal from each week. The reason for the Jingo, who is interested in the policy change was inspired by series but cannot always work it advertisers who were unsatisfied into his schedule on the current fied with total pre-emption of a hit-and-miss basis.

Realistic Approach
Jingo has a reputation as a The idea behind the series is campaigner for better TV, and backed by Jingo, but the format so it would be hypocritical of week skipping around from week to throw cold water on "Focus." Those interested in the series intended here. All Jingo asks is find it difficult to keep track of a more realistic approach to the the offerings. If it were on at showing of the series.
Channel 5 newsmen Ed would be no problem. Also, Moore, who is in charge of most there are very few more "Focus" shows, and other staff frustrating moments involving members devote much time and TV than sitting down expecting talent to the production of the series. It is a shame if their efforts are lost in the schedule it is pre-empted.
It is true that television logs shuffling.

Patrons See Half-Movie, 1 Reel Stolen

Loss Discovered at Showtime, Film Stops At Exciting Moment
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Burt Lancaster, Claudia Cardinale and a host of Mexican rebel bandits are lurking around some place in Louisville today. But there's small chance anybody will see them.
The feat, unfortunately, would require a special $12,000 lens and a film projector.
The 98 patient patrons of the United Artists theater who filed out of a delayed action-packed Valley of Death movie Sunday afternoon would have liked to. Instead, they were offered a option of staying on for a free showing of another film when it was announced the last reel of "The Professionals" had been stolen.
"The patrons were pretty good about it," said George N. Hunt Jr., United Artists manager. "People are generally nice when they know you are in trouble."

Started Anyway
The case of the hoisted reel started when the theater projectionist discovered it just wasn't there shortly after reporting for work. The film was started anyway. And right where the bullets started splattering off the rocks around Burt, the action took a powder until the 5 p.m. showing.
By then, special orders for a duplicate print of the film's ending had been dispatched to Indianapolis and, presumably, Burt survived the horrible hail of lead, and got the heroine.
Hunt is at a loss to explain what a thief or thieves could do with the film. The reel had about 1,450 feet of technicolor, 35mm Cinemascope film on it.
"To tell it would be next to impossible," Hunt said.

The World's Busiest Form of Life

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — The National Geographic Society has a superb and beautiful special on the lives of the world's biggest and busiest form of life: the insects. Told in terms that a child can understand but with a limited amount of Walt Disney-type whimsy, cameras invade "The Hidden World" of a variety of insects from New Jersey to South America. There are startling close-ups in this vividly photographed documentary: ants, gruesome in their continuous march for food; honey bees, battling their swollen and grotesque queen and glimpses of locusts — in a swarm 23 miles long — chewing up everything in their way. Alexander Scourby is the narrator and he is joined by a group of naturalists to tell the stories intelligently.
9-10 (Channels 11-6-9) — If you have been wondering who the "beautiful people" are you can catch an honest glimpse of them in the special, The Long Childhood of Timmy. They are people like the Loughlins of New York City — a loving family with a mentally retarded 8½-year-old son, Timmy. From the opening scenes of a birthday party until the Loughlins decide to send the boy to a special school in Hanover, Mass., this candidly photographed documentary tugs at your heart. You will also learn a lot about how such children can be treated and how much hope they have as adults. The brilliant script is by Susan Garfield; the intimate direction by Nicholas Webster. Stephen Fleischman is the producer. E. G. Marshall narrates. (BLACK AND WHITE)
6:30-7:30 (Channels 11-6-9) — Combat has an off-beat episode, "The Bankroll," which will be of special interest to veterans who spent more time around the poker table than on the battlefield. Focus is on Jack Hogan, desired. Rod Serling's script is as Kirby and James Stacey who guest-stars. The latter will out of you as he tells the tale of a mad bomber who has planted a bomb on a commercial jet flying from Los Angeles to New York. Edmond O'Brien is excellent as the myopic malcontent, which is ready to step on the welcher with vengeance. Vic Morrow is absent from the proceedings.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — Once again Wally Cox turns up as a mild-mannered, bespectacled home-lover who is drawn into an impossible situation. In The Girl From U.N.C.L.E. he is hired by the "syndicate" to slay a free swinging mobster, hiding in Italy. It's up to our heroine, Stefanie Powers, to stop him. (Noel Harrison is sidelined with a broken arm and a flock of girls.) Pernel Roberts, once a big cheese on Bonanza plays the gangster who may or may not be drilled with holes in this silly but adventuresome episode.

7:30-8:30 (Channels 4-5) — The tiresome problems of Occasional Wife continue as Michael Callan makes a determined effort to stop his "make-believe" wife, Patricia Harty, from becoming drawn into the net of a part-time Italian count and a full-time gigolo. It provides a breezy form of entertainment, with Fabrizio Mioni as the obvious swain, and Jeannine Riley as a girl on the run from Callan.
7:30-8:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — The Red Skelton Hour has the services of Robert Goulet who sings songs like "Try To Remember" and lends his hand at some broad comedy acting. Red turns up as Sheriff Dead-eye in a slightly amusing sketch about making a movie about Custer's last stand. Goulet plays a former peddler turned actor called Nathan Nothing. In the Silent Spot, Red plays a crotchety old salesman in the toy section of a department store during the Christmas season.
8-10 (Channels 4-5) — World Premiere offers its second feature length film made especially for television. "Doomsday Flight." Although better than "Fame is the Name of the Game," it leaves much to be desired. Rod Serling's script is aimed at frightening the wits

U.S. Bombs Short of Target, Kill 2 Vietnamese Villagers

Viet Cong Retaliate to Attack on Camp With Violence in Saigon

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A U.S. warplane supporting a Marine drive dropped a bomb on a village 1,300 yards short of its intended target to night and killed two Vietnamese civilians, an American spokesman announced. He said one civilian was injured.

The strike was made at the village of Thom-Phu Gia, 30 miles southwest of Hue. The mistaken bombing came roughly 80 miles from the border territory where two bombs that fell short from a supporting warplane Saturday killed 16 Marines and wounded 11.

U.S. B52 jets unloaded a cascade of bombs on an enemy

TOKYO (AP) — Radio Hanoi said U.S. jet planes attacked suburbs and residential areas of Hanoi today and that North Vietnamese forces in the capital area shot down four of them. It said pilots of the planes were taken prisoner.

There was no confirmation of this from U.S. officials in Saigon.

The broadcast monitored in Tokyo said the raids amounted to "a new act of escalation."

base camp close to Saigon and the Viet Cong retaliated with an outbreak of grenade throwing in and near the capital.

Mekong Delta

Although more than 1,000 South Vietnamese troops pushed a search-and-destroy mission in the Mekong Delta 105 miles south of Saigon, ground fighting across the country dwindled and only light skirmishes were reported.

U.S. planes Monday had their busiest day over North Vietnam in weeks, flying 99 bombing missions or 300 to 350 individual strikes. This was still well below the average of 150 missions flown daily before the monsoon storms moved north.

In one of the missions two all-weather Navy intruders from the carrier Kitty Hawk struck only five miles from Haiphong, North Vietnam's main port. The jet bombers made radar precision runs on a missile assembly installation, and one of the pilots said the explosions "looked like flashbulbs in the night."

Terror Attacks

The B52 raid hammered at a Viet Cong base camp and storage area 30 miles north of Saigon, repeating raids last week in the same area aimed at knocking out the lairs from which the Viet Cong launch terror attacks against the capital.

The closest B52 raid to Saigon was staged last March 28, when the eight-engine bombers hit 18 miles southeast of the city.

Three terrorist attacks in and around Saigon were reported. All the terrorists escaped.

In the air strikes against North Vietnam Monday, U.S. Air Force pilots reported knocking out five trucks in a camouflaged convoy spotted 42 miles north-northwest of Dong Hoi.

American pilots struck eight times in the demilitarized zone separating North and South Vietnam and reported wrecking a series of North Vietnamese trenches and bunkers.

A delayed report from U.S. military headquarters told of two 7th Fleet destroyers silencing a radar site Saturday on the coast of North Vietnam 12 miles north-northwest of Dong Hoi. The destroyers Ingersoll and Keppeler bombarded the radar installation with five-inch guns and reported afterward the radar stopped transmitting.

Wiretapping To Become Hearing Topic

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wiretap flap between Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover will move into the arena of a Senate hearing next year.

Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., announced the scheduling Monday night.

Long, who has been investigating invasions of privacy by wiretappers and electronic snoopers since February 1965, is chairman of the Senate subcommittee on administrative practices and procedures.

At issue is who — Hoover or Kennedy — is telling the truth about who authorized the wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping which has jeopardized a host of federal prosecutions.

One of those cases on the endangered list involves Bobby Baker, former secretary to Sen. Edward Kennedy and a friend of President Johnson.

Chicago Couple Can Adopt Boy They Think Is Their Son

CHICAGO (AP) — It's final. Chester and Dora Fronczak can adopt the baby boy they think is their own.

A final adoption decree signed Monday in Circuit Court made the couple, whose infant son, Paul Joseph, was kidnapped in April 1964, the legal parents of a foundling from New Jersey whom the parents think is the kidnapped child.

The Fronczaks were not present as Judge James E. Murphy signed the order. The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services gave the adoption full approval.

The couple has been caring for the 2½-year-old child named Paul Joseph since June, when they got him from

Murphy Seems Headed for Morton's Job

Fund-Raising Post Helped Bring Fame To Barry Goldwater

WASHINGTON (AP) — California Sen. George Murphy appears headed for the GOP job that helped make Barry Goldwater famous — hunting votes and money for Republican Senate campaigners.

Goldwater, who served four years as chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, said he thinks Murphy, 64, should get the post.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, who holds it now, said the Californian apparently has the votes to take over when GOP senators fill the position in January.

Morton is leaving the post to prepare his own re-election campaign. Goldwater plans a Senate race for the Arizona seat now held by Sen. Carl Hayden, a Democrat.

Opposes Scott

Murphy leans toward conservatism; Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, who also wants the job, is among the Senate's more liberal Republicans.

But Goldwater said in an interview that ideology has nothing to do with his view. "I think somebody like Murphy will be more universally accepted, particularly in the West," he said.

"This is no ideological clash in the Party at all," said Morton, "just a question of who can raise some hard cash."

He said Murphy ranks right behind Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen as the most sought-after speaker among GOP senators.

Dirksen was not tipping his hand on a choice for the chairmanship. He said Sens. Jack R. Miller of Iowa and Gordon L. Allott of Colorado want it, too.

Prisoners to Send First Yule Cards

CHICAGO (AP) — Inmates at the House of Correction — Chicago's city jail — will be allowed to send Christmas cards this year, for the first time, since the jail opened 114 years ago.

The inmates printed about 2,000 cards, which bear a picture of a wreath and a lantern, with a greeting printed inside.

Acting Supt. C. William Rudell said Monday the cards carry no indication that they were printed in a jail.

Conviction Upheld

Hoffa Team Continues to Plot Ways To Delay Serving Prison Sentence

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa is in the toughest spot of his troubled nine-year reign over the giant Teamsters Union after the Supreme Court rejected appeal of his jury-tampering conviction.

But "he took it philosophically" and immediately started laying plans to continue his battle to stay out of prison, a close associate said of Hoffa's reaction to Monday's court decision.

The Teamsters president was sentenced to eight years after his 1964 conviction in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Hoffa, re-elected last July to a five-year term as chief of the 1.7 million-member union, has no intention of giving up without a fight to the last, informed sources within the union said.

Hoffa's lawyers could stave off execution of the sentence for months, these sources said.

"He has three shots at it," said one source — "a rehearing (before the Supreme Court), a stay of execution and a writ of habeas corpus to show why he should not be detained."

Hoffa's attorneys hope to come up with new evidence that could upset the conviction, it was indicated.

However, neither Hoffa nor other union officials would comment officially.

Hoffa, first elected Teamsters president in 1957, successfully survived a long series of federal prosecutions until 1964 when he lost the jury-tampering case and was also convicted in Chicago and sentenced to five years for fraud.

It was also in 1957 that the Cincinnati Intensifies Investigation

Man Being Held In Rape-Slayings Of Elderly Women

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The investigation of six strangulation slayings picked up momentum today as police probed further into the fatal stabbing of another woman.

Police held Postal Laskey, 29, a laborer and a former cabdriver, but have not charged him with any of the murders. He has denied knowing anything about them.

Laskey was charged earlier with several minor offenses and was being questioned about the series of slayings.

Police, giving no further comment, called a news conference today.

The murders are the stabbing of Barbara Bowman, 31, and the strangling of six elderly women. The stranglings started Dec. 2, 1965, and have made Cincinnati a city of fear.

All the strangling victims were more than 50 years old. Five have been raped.

Arrested Friday

Laskey was arrested Friday shortly after Lula Kerriek, 81, was found strangled in the elevator of her apartment house two blocks from police headquarters.

The arrest was not directly concerned with the slaying. Police picked up Laskey on the complaint of a woman who lived near Miss Kerriek and said a man had chased her into her home. A neighbor noted the license number of the man's car.

Late Monday, police obtained pages full of undisclosed items from the homes of Laskey's mother and from an apartment he rented four weeks ago.

Miss Bowman, a secretary, was found dying early Aug. 14 near a wrecked taxicab that turned out to have been stolen.

Man Killed in Second Accident at Intersection

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Samuel Davis was struck by a car at a Salem intersection a month ago and was taken to a hospital. He was released Dec. 1.

As he stepped from the same corner Monday night, Davis, 67, was hit by another car and killed.

Military Leadership Program Follows 6 Years of U. S. Advising

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Under American prodding, South Vietnam finally is undertaking a program to improve leadership in its armed forces.

The action comes nearly six years after the United States embarked on a major advisory effort here.

For the first time, the Vietnamese command has installed a promotion system based on merit rather than political preference.

Some facets of the program are meeting resistance, sources said. Controversy swirls chiefly around measures designed to eliminate deadwood from the Vietnamese officer corps.

Many U.S. military men long have complained privately of inadequate leadership in the South Vietnamese army.

These Americans have charged that substandard field leadership has been responsible for lack of aggressiveness and initiative, and ineffectiveness of many Vietnamese units.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the top U.S. commander in Vietnam, became alarmed last spring at what sources said was a deterioration in already questionable Vietnamese leadership, particularly in the Third Corps encompassing 11 provinces and Saigon.

He drew up a formal note to the Vietnamese command expressing his concern. The Westmoreland memo started machinery that now is producing reforms.

Pleads Guilty In Rape Case

Neenah Man Sent To State Hospital Before Sentencing

Gregory Hockers, 25, 1122 County Trunk U. Neenah, arrested by Appleton police following an attack on a 15-year-old high school girl Nov. 16, Monday afternoon pleaded guilty of attempted rape.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered Hockers committed to Central State Hospital for examination before the Neenah man is sentenced.

Hockers, through his court-appointed attorney, waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the upper branch of county court for the taking of a plea.

Hockers, father of four, was arrested at his home Dec. 3 and has been in the Outagamie County jail in lieu of posting $3,500 bond.

The Appleton girl was attacked about 9:30 p.m. Nov. 16 as she walked near State and Sixth Streets. She told police she was dragged between two houses and later was struck in the back of the head and was kicked in the stomach by her assailant.

In the Office Zoo

Best, Worst Always Shown at Christmas

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Christmas brings out the best and the worst in the occupants of the office zoo.
In almost every American business office between now and the first of the year, some or all of these things are bound to occur:
Some wag will try to figure a way to put a fifth of gin in the water cooler.
The secretaries in each department will compete to see which can put up the prettiest small Christmas tree by her desk.
Some cheapskate will steal the string of lights off at least one tree to decorate his own tree at home.
If someone takes up a collection for the janitor, half the staff will say, "Why him—why not one for the office boy?"
If someone takes up a collection for the office boy, half the staff will say, "Why him—why not one for the janitor?"
What About Me?
If someone takes up a collection for both the office boy and the janitor, three out of four members of the staff will whine, "When are you going to take up a collection for me?"
The senior executives will give their secretaries gift certificates averaging $25, and get their annual reward—a dutiful peck on the cheek.
The junior executives will pass out stale boxes of cheap chocolates—and charming smiles. They'll get back from the girls grumpy looks of feigned gratitude.
Everybody will come to work later and later, and output will fall about 50 per cent.
The coffee breaks and luncheon periods will get longer and longer, as the employees try to do as much shopping as possible on company time.
From Dec. 15 on, only one out of three calls going through the office switchboard will have anything to do with the firm's business.
Sprig of Mistletoe
The homeliest girl in the place will sneak in a big sprig of mistletoe and furtively drop it on the desk of some bold fellow she's sure will hang it up.
Someone will be fired; someone will be hired.
One of the stenographers will come reeling in from an all-hen luncheon so loaded with daiquiris she'll have to spend the rest

Visits to National Parks Are America's Concern

System Is Getting Pressure of Increased Travel, George B. Hartzog Tells Editors

BY JAMES AUER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — "The impact of rapidly increasing numbers of visitors in the national parks is a matter of national concern," George B. Hartzog Jr., director of the National Park Service, U.S. Department of the Interior, declared here last week.

Addressing the annual meeting of the American Association of Sunday and Feature Editors, Hartzog cited growth of the nation's population; increased popularity of the automobile and advances in affluence and leisure as causes underlying the current pressure on the National Park System.

"In the past 52 years, he noted, the number of privately-owned cars registered in the United States has increased from 1.6 to more than 71 million. By the year 2000, it is predicted the number will climb to over 240 million.

97 Million Trips
"In 1965, 97 million Americans took at least one vacation or pleasure trip by automobile, driving an estimated 140 billion miles," he told the editors.

"The private passenger car is used in 90 per cent of all vacation and recreation trips in this country — a figure that will not doubt increase when the 41,000-mile Interstate Highway System is completed six years from now."

Half a century ago, he recalled, "the 40-hour week, a minimum wage, two-to-three-week paid vacations were visionary nonsense. . . . Today, they are part of the economic birthright of our children in this highly mobile, affluent America of the 1960's."

Pressure Mounts
As a result, "pressure is mounting for us to permit uses we have not permitted before, to introduce innovations we have not considered before, and to handle visitor loads that were not thought possible a decade ago."

By Congressional mandate, the goal of the National Park Service, established in 1916, is the conservation of scenery, natural and historic objects, and wildlife of the national parks, "for the enjoyment of people now and in the future."

This mandate does not say, Hartzog emphasized, "we are to erect a fence around parks to keep the people out, nor does it say that only specially privileged people can use parks. . . . Importantly, the mandate does not say that all people may have all things in all parks."

New Areas
Implementing the essentially democratic philosophy of the National Park concept, the Department of the Interior has in the past two years received authorization for 23 new areas. Hartzog said, "These include one new national park — Guadalupe Mountains in Texas; three national monuments, five national historic sites, two national seashores — Assateague Island in Maryland and Virginia and Cape Lookout in North Carolina; and two national lakeshores — Indiana Dunes on Lake Michigan and Pictured Rocks on Lake Superior."

In addition, he noted three national recreation areas have been authorized. One, the Delaware Water Gap, will serve "huge populations in the eastern megalopolis drawing from Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New York, New Jersey and Connecticut."

The 89th Congress also created two national memorials and three national historical parks, as well as authorizing acquisition of the Great Falls of the Potomac, and the creation of a unique cultural park at the Wolf Trap Farm, to be donated by Mrs. Jouett Shouse in northern Virginia.

Stresses Responsibility
"But the task of providing healthful outdoor recreation for our burgeoning population cannot be met by the national parks — or even by the public lands managed by all of the federal land-managing agencies," Hartzog stressed.

"States, local government and private enterprise must shoulder the bulk of the need. It is the objective of the Land and Water Conservation Fund, with its matching fund grants to states and local government, to encourage and assist them in accelerating their park and recreation programs."

Criticizing those observers who would reject "out of hand" any new solutions to park problems, Hartzog said this attitude "critically limits the options available to park administrators — at a time when new solutions must be found."

Imaginative planning for the transportation needs of the parks — including, if need be, the use of helicopters and tramways — must be encouraged if the present traffic problems are to be solved.

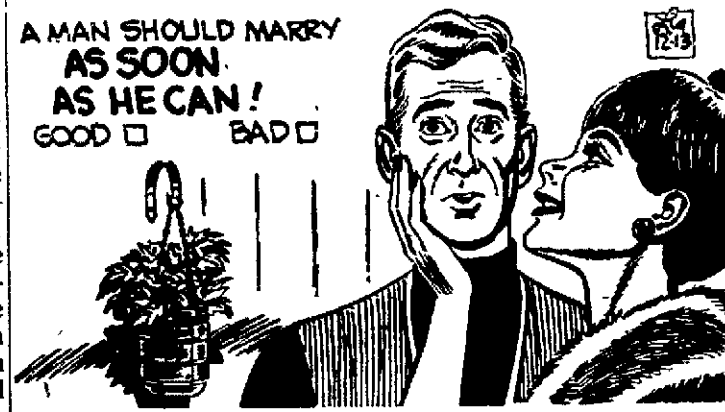

"Recently I was a member of the inter-department study team which surveyed the Northern Cascade region of the State of Washington — an area of incomparable scenic beauty which was first proposed for national park status many years ago," he said.

"Treating the problem of how to bring visitors into this area without doing damage to the untouched natural scene, several of us joined in a recommendation that the inevitable scars

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

A MAN SHOULD MARRY AS SOON AS HE CAN! GOOD ☐ BAD ☐

Bad. A panel of young husbands says waiting awhile before plunging into marriage is best. The general feeling among them was that they did well to marry late, not only because their bachelorhood was a great deal of fun and, if missed, might have been mourned for all of their married days, but also because the period gave them time to straighten out some of the facts about romantic love before they could make serious errors. Would this be true of women, too, do you think?

Is there such a thing as a sixth sense?
Yes — No —
Yes. Most of us are aware of only the five basic senses — seeing, hearing, touching, tasting, smelling. But the recent studies indicate that some persons can "see" colors or even read newsprint through their fingers. Dr. Richard P. Youtz of Barnard college reports that he has personally tested a woman who identifies colors by touch alone. The Russians tell of other cases of fingertip seeing and are now rechecking earlier reports of this ability. Much more evidence is needed, but there seem to be strong indications that some persons do have a "sixth sense."

Cuba Launches Drive to Cut Traffic Deaths

Young Girls Have Started Directing Autos in Havana

By ISAAC M. FLORES
HAVANA (AP) — Cuba is conducting a traffic safety campaign to cut down the number of motor vehicle accidents, which have killed some 2,200 persons in the last four years.

It is cracking down on reckless drivers and pedestrians and attempting to enforce widely disregarded traffic laws.

The latest effort in this capital city of 1.5 million and a large number of rambling wrecks that pass for automobiles is the use of young girls to direct traffic in busy areas.

Decked out in green and white uniforms, green boots and white berets, the girls stand in the middle of congested intersections and attempt to regulate the vehicular flow with arm signals and the aid of a short, baton-like, combination pointer and nighttime signal light.

Education Campaign
No one is sure it will work in downtown Havana, but an intensive educational campaign is under way to make both drivers and pedestrians aware of the traffic dangers that have caused more than 100,000 accidents throughout the island since 1963.

It is almost traditional for Cuban motorists to ignore stop, slow, yield and speed limit signs, particularly in the Havana area.

Many pedestrians walk in the streets instead of on sidewalks, especially in the narrow, congested byways in the older parts of Havana, and other cities.

Few motorists use hand signals and, when they do, they are usually the wrong ones. Many drivers operate their vehicles with one hand on the wheel and one arm dangling out the window and swinging wildly up, down and sideways as they talk to their companions.

Most of the violators are men. There are few women drivers in Cuba.

Cars Aging
Another reason for the high rate of accidents is the age and condition of automobiles. Most are products of Detroit; therefore the newest models are from 1958 and 1959. The only newer cars, the 1960 models, belong to diplomats and government officials.

Most taxis and privately owned vehicles are rolling heaps of nuts and bolts up to 20 years old that wouldn't be allowed on the road in other countries.

Many have one or both headlights out, no windshield wipers, tires smooth as glass, hoods and motor parts held together with wire, and doors that won't open or close.

The majority don't have the brakes for a quick stop. Gasoline, at 60 cents a gallon, is poor, often diluted; brake and transmission fluids are worse.

Much publicity is being given to statistics showing that 28,252 traffic accidents in 1965 resulted in 615 deaths and 19,326 persons injured — the great majority in the Havana area. Damage totaled $8,031,048.

The record number of traffic citations is thought to be held by Juan Francisco Gonzalez Brito, who has had 26 violations in Havana in the past 18 months.

Taxi driver Alicia Marquez Perez has paid 18 traffic fines in the same period. He has received numerous other warnings for nonmoving violations.

Knowles Kept Clear Of Speakership Fight But Fish Involved

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Gov. Knowles was not directly involved in the struggle over the election of a speaker of the Assembly by the new Republican majority in that house, but the impression has prevailed that he did because of the open intervention in the contest by some of the men close to him.

Among them was Ody Fish, the Republican state chairman and close Knowles adviser, who backed his neighbor and friend Assemblyman Clemens of Waukesha over Harold Froehlich of Appleton, who won by a single vote.

Reports from the Assembly Republican caucus and the executive office, however, indicate that Knowles has made his peace with the Assembly leadership corps and is hopeful about an amicable relationship as the administration's legislative program emerges during succeeding months.

Knowles expects to hold regular sessions with the Republican law-makers on his program and on his budget, something he failed to do during the first legislative term.

There is a good chance that the new legislature will arrange for longer sittings each week, to permit an earlier adjournment in late spring or summer. Traditionally the law-makers have spent about three days a week at the capitol during most of the regular sessions. There is talk now of attempting to keep the houses in session, once the organization is completed and the flow of bills begins, from Monday through Friday. With the higher pay schedule that will be in effect in January, the members will have less justification for pleading that they must return to their jobs and businesses to make a living.

Sen. Reuben LaFave, of Oconto, the current chairman of the Senate Highways Committee who expects to be returned to that assignment in the new legislative session, has told friends that he wants to sell his trucking business before the new legislative term begins in order to avoid any appearance of a possible conflict of interest in his legislative performance.

The highways committee will handle many bills affecting the trucking industry, including the highly controversial proposal of the motor carriers for a modification of the truck size laws to permit them to put longer trailers on the roads.

One of the best informed Democratic politicians of the state appraises the future course of Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette, who withstood the strong Republican trend in the November elections, this way:

Left to his own devices, LaFollette will probably prefer to remain in his present office, one of the most conspicuous available, and prepare for a candidacy for U.S. senator in 1970 when the term of Sen. Proxmire, who now holds the old "LaFollette seat" will expire.

But LaFollette will be under enormous pressures from Democratic politicians all over Wisconsin during the next year to lead the ticket in 1968 as a candidate for governor, and probably won't be able to overcome their importunings. If he decides to run for governor, however, it is unlikely that either Pat Lucey or David Carley would care to challenge him in a primary fight, whatever they are now hinting in their publicity releases.

Kenneth Priebe of Appleton, former assemblyman and one time assembly chief clerk who worked part-time as a legislative liaison man for the state executive department during the last two years, will start full-time service in that assignment, at higher pay, in January.

Unnoticed in the heavy publicity given to the reorganization of the state Senate Republican leadership last week was the fact that Sen. Raymond Bice of LaCrosse retained his rank as

House of Representatives when he reaches Washington. Steiger is on the closest terms with Rep. Melvin Laird of the Wisconsin Seventh District, now the Nov. 2 ranking Republican in the House. Laird was responsible for much of the outside help that went into Steiger's campaign, with marked effect.

The recent report here about the probable retirement of George Kaiser, state commissioner of administration, was incorrect, the officer says. The report was circulated by some of his critics, he believes. Not all state agencies are yet reconciled to the idea that many of their operations are now under the control of the Department of Administration, under one of the few important state government reorganization acts adopted in recent times. The department was created during the administration of former Gov. Nelson, with the assistance of leading Republican legislators of that time.

Kaiser evidently intends to remain in his key job during the period of Warren Knowles' governorship.

Plumbing Post Vacant Again

Appleton was without a deputy plumbing inspector Monday. The recent resignation of Donald Natrop, submitted two weeks ago, became effective Friday.

Natrop left his job with the city to enter private business. He was the No. 2 man in the plumbing inspection division for the past six months.

Prior to then the position had been vacant more than a year.

A Piano Keys Notebook!
Decoration for Cover

BY CAPPY DICK
Any boy or girl whose hobby is music is likely to want a notebook like the one shown in the adjoining picture.

Use Glossy Enamel
The cover of the book is decorated with a piano keyboard. Any hard-cover ring binder book cover will do. There are two ways to apply the piano keys. One is to draw them on a strip of white construction paper that is as long as the cover of the book, then glue the paper to the book. In this case, the black keys may be made with black poster paint, water color paint, or black waterproof ink. The other way is to paint the keys directly on the book cover, using glossy enamel paint. This method is to be preferred because it will make a keyboard that will be a permanent part of the cover, also it will have a luster that is typical of a real piano keyboard. However, much care must be used in applying the paint to make the lines between the keys straight and the black keys neat in appearance. Either way, the keyboard will be decorative and eye-catching. What's more, you can do a lot of keyboard practicing on it. Wednesday New chance to win a set of 12 story books! (Copyright 1966)

Jets, Giants Can be Spoilers

New York Teams May Hold Keys to Two Eastern Title Races

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York's pro football buffs, who counted themselves out of the American and National league title race weeks ago, can count themselves back in this weekend.

Although the Jets are going nowhere and the Giants have been there for sometime, each club may hold the key to its league's Eastern Division championship maze.

The Jets, whose hopes for an unprecedented winning season evaporated at San Diego last Sunday, take on the Boston Pa-

UCLA Quint Unanimous Top Choice

Texas Western Ranked Second In the AP Poll

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

There is no threat this week to UCLA's standing as the No. 1 team in The Associated Press' major-college basketball poll because the powerful Bruins are not scheduled. Second-ranked Texas Western and fourth-ranked Kentucky, though, seem to have difficult tasks ahead.

Texas Western meets fifth-ranked New Mexico Friday while Kentucky faces sixth-ranked North Carolina Tuesday.

UCLA was a unanimous choice in the latest poll based on games through last Saturday. The Bruins were placed in the top position by all 36 selectors on the national panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

The Bruins, 3-0, defeated Duke twice last week, 88-54 Friday and 107-87 Saturday. The No. 1 team does not play again until Dec. 22 when it takes on Colorado State.

Holds Second Texas Western, 5-0, held second place after defeating East Texas, Pan American and Southern Methodist.

Louisville switched places with Kentucky, the Cardinals moving to third and the Wildcats slipping to fourth. Louisville beat Southwestern Louisiana and Southern Illinois while Kentucky lost to Illinois in overtime and came back to down Northwestern.

Michigan State, 4-0 including victories last week over South Dakota and Wichita State, is the only new team in the rankings. The Spartans replaced Duke, which has lost three of four games.

Houston, only member of the Top Ten to play Monday night, shrugged off four technical fouls and buried visiting St. Mary's, Calif., 90-74 for its fifth victory in six starts.

Alcindor Getting Rough Treatment, Says Wooden

LOS ANGELES (AP)—UCLA basketball Coach John Wooden says his skyscraper center, Lew Alcindor, got rough treatment in the Bruins first three games.

"He is not getting the protection he should get and the protection normal players get," Wooden told sportswriters Monday. "There have been some atrocious things... On out-of-bounds plays, men stand next to him with their hands all over him."

Sophomore Alcindor, 7-1½, scored 113 points in the games against Southern California and Duke.

Wooden indicated that referees are inclined to look at the ball, sometimes held aloft by Alcindor so it's out of the opposition's reach, instead of at contact being made with the young giant.

"They hold him down a little by body contact," said Wooden. "I have a film of the games and if I put together some of the things I've seen, I could run a pretty good strip of it."

Miami Gives Grid Scholarship to First Negro

PALMETTO, Fla. (AP)—The University of Miami Monday signed its first Negro football player to grant-in-aid scholarship.

He is Raymond Bellamy, 6-foot-5 and 185-pound end from Lincoln High School, a predominantly Negro school.

Bellamy started for two seasons at Lincoln, where his team compiled a 16-1 record.

They'll Do It Every Time

triots, pace-setters in the AFL's Eastern race, at Shea Stadium Saturday. The Pats need either a victory or tie to lock up the division crown.

The Giants, most scored-upon club in NFL history, wind up their losingest season over Sunday when they entertain the explosive Dallas Cowboys at Yankee Stadium. The Cowboys can wrap up the Eastern Conference title before they take the field if Cleveland beats second-place St. Louis Saturday.

But a Cardinal victory would give the fallen Giants a shot at sidetracking Dallas' title express. The Cowboys then would have to either beat or tie New York to clinch their first division championship since they entered the NFL six years ago.

The Cowboys, with the highest scoring offense in the league, rate three-touchdown favorites over New York, which has yielded a record 484 points in sliding to a 1-11 season mark.

The Jets, 5-6-2, are six-point underdogs against the Patriots, 8-3-2, who have dropped only one of their last 10 starts.

The Patriots, who lead Buffalo's defending AFL champs by one-half game in the Eastern stretch race, expect Gino Capelletti, the league's scoring leader, to be ready for full-time duty. Capelletti nursed a bruised thigh through last Sunday's 38-14 victory at Houston.

Dallas, the NFL's Eastern crown within its grasp last Sunday, bowed to Washington 34-31. Quarterback Don Meredith, injured in the second period against the Redskins, should be ready to call signals against the Giants, who were drubbed by Pittsburgh 47-28 last Sunday.

Pete Elliott No Longer Seeking Illini Directorship

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—The University of Illinois says its head football coach, Pete Elliott, has withdrawn as a candidate for director of athletics.

The move Monday indicated Elliott was in line for the athletic director post at Northwestern, a position for which Vince DeFrancesca, athletic director and football coach at Carroll College of Wisconsin, was reportedly also being considered.

The Northwestern job became available Dec. 1 with the retirement of Stu Holcomb. Also being studied for the job was Elliott's brother, Bump Elliott of Michigan.

Illinois said it will continue its interviews.

Alworth Takes Pass Receiving Lead in AFL

Eyes First Title; Dawson Holds Top Passing Spot

NEW YORK (AP) — Lance Alworth, who started the season with hairline fractures in both hands and now is playing with a pulled hamstring muscle, has moved into position to claim his first receiving title in the American Football League.

The speedy San Diego flanker, a three-time all-league selection, never has been able to win the title although he invariably leads the AFL in average yards gained per catch. But right now he's in front.

Alworth grabbed seven passes for 127 yards against New York Sunday, lifting his season total to 65 catches and three more than George Sauer of the Jets. Sauer went into the game with the lead but was able to catch only one pass.

Trailing Alworth and Sauer with one game to go are Houston's Charlie Frazier and Chris Burford of Kansas City. Both have caught 56, one more than Kansas City's Otis Taylor, who has the best average, 21.9.

Alworth's partner, quarterback John Hadl, is running second to Len Dawson of Kansas City in the passing race. The two will battle head on in the final regular season game at San Diego Sunday.

Jim Nance, Boston's bruising fullback, has clinched the rushing title and has lifted his total for the year to 1,380 yards.

Sandlot Football Player Succumbs To Brain Injury

PARKVILLE, Md. (AP) — A brain concussion suffered during a sandlot football game caused the death of a 20-year-old youth, a medical examiner said Monday.

Joseph H. Sharp Jr. of Parkville failed to get up after tackling another player in a game Sunday.

Werner Spitz, assistant state medical examiner, who performed an autopsy Monday, said Sharp's death was caused by "a very serious concussion of the brain, associated with hemorrhaging."

Police said that Sharp had not been wearing protective equipment.

Stan Mikita Widens NHL Scoring Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — Slick Stan Mikita, the Chicago Black Hawks' diminutive center, is opening a wide gap in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Mikita, with one goal and five assists last week, shows 12-26-38 for the season and a 15-point bulge over Detroit's Norm Ullman and New York's Phil Goyette, who share second place.

Last Field Goal Came Nov. 6

Don Chandler's 'Miss' Streak Stands at 7

With three seconds left in the half, he missed the 53-yarder that day. He then missed from 39 and 37 yards out against the Bears, from 37 against the Vikings in Minnesota, and from 45, 47 and 30 yards in Baltimore. The 30-yarder was tipped.

"I know it really doesn't count but most of the misses were close," Chandler said, holding up his hands to measure out a couple of feet, and then adding: "I've been kicking longer ones this year."

Chandler has attempted 26 field goals this year and he hit on 10 from 15, 14, 14, 23, 31, 18, 22, 30, 40 and 11 yards.

Of the 16 misses, two were blocked... the remaining misses were (in order since the start of the league season) from 34, 43, 39, 26, 47, 29, 38, 53, 29, 37, 37, 45, 47 and 30 yards.

Jerry Kramer, who rooms with Chandler has urged Don "not to let it get you down. We really haven't needed you yet."

Kramer, of course, is "prepping" Chandler for what could be three more games — two for sure. The Packers play the Rams next Sunday, the Eastern Division champ Jan. 1 and then, if all goes well, the AFL champion Jan. 15.

Chandler has also been off on his punting, which is even more snake-bit evidence, because he has punted throughout his football career. He didn't start field goal kicking until five years ago.

Koufax Leaves Marks Galore In Final Year

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Sandy Koufax left the game of baseball in style, making his last season the best of his fabulous 12-career.

The 30-year-old lefthander led the league in six categories, according to official National League statistics, and was tied for first in two others. He also set two major league records and one National League record.

Koufax finished the season with an earned run average of 1.73-leading the league for the fifth year in a row. Grover Cleveland Alexander, the National League ace of the 1920s, also led the circuit five times, but not in successive years.

317 Strike Outs

Sandy set another major league season record by striking out 317 batters—the third time in a row he had passed the 300 mark. His 27-9 record represents the first time any National League lefthander has won that many games in one season.

Jim Bunning of Philadelphia and Koufax both started 41 games, but Sandy completed 27 of these to Bunnings 16, and worked more innings (323) and pitched to more batters (1,274) than any other National League pitcher in 1966.

Bunning was second, facing 1,254 batters in 314 innings, and came in fourth in the ERA sweepstakes with a 2.41, behind Houston's Mike Cuellar (2.22) and Juan Marichal of San Francisco (2.32).

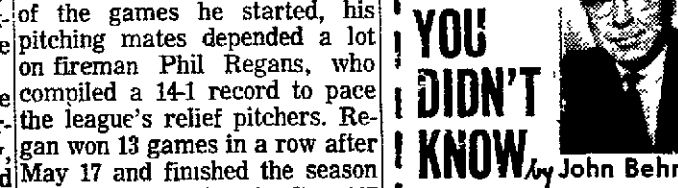

14-1 Reliever While Sandy completed most of the games he started, his pitching mates depended a lot on fireman Phil Regans, who compiled a 14-1 record to pace the league's relief pitchers. Regan won 13 games in a row after May 17 and finished the season with an ERA of 1.62 after 117 innings' work.

Clay Carroll of Atlanta saw action in more games (73) than any other pitcher and wound up with an 8-7 record and an ERA of 2.38 for 144 innings' work.

At the other end of the scale, Dick Ellsworth of the hapless Chicago Cubs, since traded to Philadelphia, lost 22 games while winning eight, and led the league—or trailed as it could be called—by yielding 321 hits and 150 runs. Sammy Ellis of Cincinnati (12-19) gave up the most earned runs, 130, and yielded a whopping 35 home runs.

Tony Cloninger (14-11) of Atlanta won the dubious wildest man award with 116 walks and 27 wild pitches.

SPORT FANS! I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Here's a football question that many fans aren't sure of... And, surprisingly, many players aren't sure of it either... Suppose a team kicks off to start a game and the ball rolls into the end zone without anyone touching it... Then, suddenly a player from the KICKING team runs downfield and falls on the ball in the end zone... What's the ruling?... Is it a touchback (with the ball brought back to the 20) or is it a safety or a touchdown or what?... Answer is a touchdown for the team that kicked off... Once a ball has gone 10 yards, it's a free ball and the receiving team must either run the ball back or down it themselves.

What are the odds on seeing a football game without any penalties during the game?... Well, in pro football there hasn't been a game without at least one penalty for 26 consecutive years!... Last time a pro game was played without a penalty was in a contest between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh on November 10, 1940.

Here's a football oddity... Don Hutson kicked 3 field goals in the entire 1943 season in the National Football League — and wound up leading the league in most field goals!... Today, you sometimes see a player kick that many in one game... But in 1943, no one was able to kick more than 3 all year.

Milwaukee Mayor Declares

'Only Regress to Carry Fight to the Congress'

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Wisconsin's court-battered protests against professional baseball may go into extra innings despite the U. S. Supreme Court's refusal Monday to review the state's Braves case.

Atty. Gen. Bronson C. La Follette said the state was "considering the possibility of filing a petition for rehearing" although the Supreme Court rarely reviews a case a second time.

Justices William O. Douglas, Hugo Black and William J. Brennan Jr. said Monday they would have heard the state's appeal, but it requires approval from four of the nine justices to get a case before the court.

The court's rejection leaves the major leagues free to move their franchises as they please. The court, in effect, refused to review baseball's immunity from antitrust law. Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., who introduced a bill in 1965 designed to remove baseball from antitrust exemption, said he will re-introduce the measure in Congress. The original bill died in committee.

Deeply Disappointed
"Got your crying towel there?" La Follette remarked in Madison to newsmen seeking his reaction to the court's rejection. Then he added: "Naturally we are deeply disappointed."

Milwaukee, which the Braves abandoned last year for Atlanta, developed an official attitude that the Braves should be forgotten.

"Now that the smoke is cleared," said Milwaukee County Executive John Doyle, "we can go out and compete for a franchise."

"Soccer, baseball, football; that would be a pretty good stadium package" for the stadium the Braves left behind, Doyle said.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the Supreme Court's refusal to act is an invitation to Congress to take steps.

"It is shocking," Proxmire said, "that a business this big—that makes millions of dollars a year—has no regulation whatever, state or federal."

Fight to Congress
Mayor Henry Maier agreed that "it appears the only regress for those who have carried this fight to bring major league baseball back to Milwaukee is to the Congress."

Steven E. Keane, special counsel to Milwaukee County, said he plans to confer with La Follette.

The county's federal court action against baseball may be reactivated, Keane said.

"This would seem to be the end of the line insofar as the State of Wisconsin's action is concerned," said Warren Giles, National League President after learning in Cincinnati of the court refusal.

"The action," he said, "is, of course, very gratifying to the National League."

William Bartholomay, chairman of the board for the Braves, said his group felt "from the beginning that our legal position was sound, and I hope that this finally brings to an end the whole question of the Braves' move to Atlanta."

Lester W. Brann Jr., executive vice president of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce, said it appears "the only remedy in this situation is with Congress. And that should be a long and laborious task."

Baseball Gains New Freedom In Court's Stand that arose after the Braves moved. Milwaukee County has sued the Braves and the National League under federal antitrust law and that case still is pending.

Two years ago the Braves got league permission to move out of Milwaukee.

Their departure left Milwaukee with no major league baseball — the first city in the nation in modern times to be totally abandoned when a team moved.

The state went to court last year with its antitrust case, contending the league's 10 members and the league were illegally boycotting Milwaukee.

Last April a state judge, Elmer W. Roller, ruled that the move was a violation of state law. Besides ordering the league to send back the Braves or open the city to a new team, the judge fined each of the 10 teams $5,000.

The state supreme court agreed with Roller that the Braves and the league had violated state law and condemned them but said state law could not be enforced because of the game's traditional freedom from antitrust laws.

Milwaukeeans Divided in Sentiment About the Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP)—An informal poll of Milwaukeeans brought to have a team. Mrs. Catherine Schnicker said she expects to remain a fan and that "we really need a baseball team."

"Milwaukee will be better off if it gets another team and stops trying fighting in court," said Jeffrey Baars, 18.

The loss of the Braves, said Judith Weber, 19, leaves nothing for the kids to do anymore in the summer.

"Milwaukee has to show more sports interest if it is going to get a major league team," C. A. Davis said. "It has to be more n't as much a Braves fan as he sports conscious."

Anderson's fumble of the ensuing kickoff. Unitas tried two passes before Michaels' 26-yard field goal — both on Herb Adderley's side.

"Just before the half, Unitas really unloaded on me. He threw three straight at Berry (Raymond, the left end). He completed the first for about seven yards to our 40 and then he unloaded one of those deep floaters down the sidelines but Lee Roy (Caffey) and I had Berry covered so he threw it out of bounds.

"On his third try, I was lucky enough to tip it and that's when Wood made his second interception."

Starr had his chest taped up at the half but "when I warmed up with Bob Long I knew it was no use. It all turned out well, didn't it?"

Bart allowed that "those Colts are tough on my ribs."

Starr received the same kind of injury on the first play of the sudden death playoff against the Colts last Dec. 26. He was back throwing the next Sunday — in the title contest.

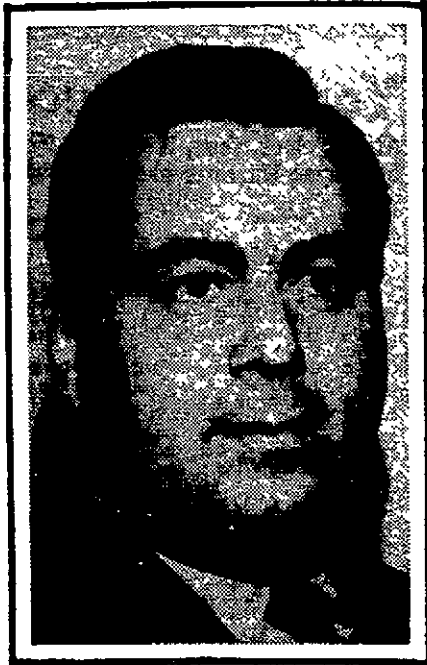

This time, however, he has three weeks to heal — until Jan. 1 when the Packers battle for the 1966 NFL crown.

Which means that Bratkowski likely will carry the load at quarterback against the Rams in Los Angeles Sunday.

Terrell a Hit With Crowd In Milwaukee

WBA Champ Toys With Eddie Brooks In Exhibition Bout

MILWAUKEE (AP) — If tall Ernie Terrell lost his temper, he didn't show it.

But the bell ending round three sounded and there was the 6-foot-6 Terrell, who is recognized by the World Boxing Association as the heavyweight champion of the world, slugging it out with unknown Eddie Brooks of Milwaukee.

Brooks, who lost in the finals of the 1965 national Golden Gloves, had only one professional fight before Monday night's exhibition with Terrell, who will fight Cassius Clay for the undisputed world heavyweight championship Feb. 6.

Brooks lost that bout in one round on one right hand thrown by another unknown Orville Qualls of Omaha, Neb.

But Brooks was after Terrell as if the championship were at stake in the four-round show for no decision.

The referee pulled the fighters apart. Terrell looked at Brooks and smiled.

Mouthpiece Goes

In the next - and last - round Terrell knocked out Brooks' mouthpiece and graciously waited until the Milwaukee fighter could pick it up.

Brooks again lost his mouthpiece. This time he kept wading in on Terrell, flailing away with every punch he possessed. Terrell sent a left to the face but otherwise avoided inflicting undue punishment on Brooks.

The crowd loved the exhibition. Brooks, who scored with some hard rights to Terrell's helmeted head in the third round was a local boy in against one of the best and he didn't disgrace himself.

And Terrell, despite some borderline body blows in the early going, was the clean playing contender.

The fans cheered for Brooks; then they cheered a decibel or two louder for Terrell.

The contender stepped toward the center of the ring and pointed toward Brooks who was bathed in perspiration and happiness in the opposite corner.

Terrell began slapping his gloved hands together, urging more applause for Brooks.

Notre Dame's Lynch Earns Maxwell Cup

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — All-America linebacker Jim Lynch has been selected winner of the Maxwell Trophy, symbolic of college football's outstanding player, Notre Dame announced Monday.

Lynch, captain of Notre Dame's 1966 national champions, becomes the third Irish player to be so honored in the 30-year history of the Robert W. Maxwell memorial award.

Other Notre Dame recipients were end Leon Hart in 1949 and halfback John Lattner in 1952 and 1953, the only double winner in history.

Three Year Regular Lynch, a 6 foot 1, 215-pounder from Lima, Ohio, capped three years as regular linebacker this season by leading the team in tackles with 106. As defensive signal caller, he guided the first team defensive unit which shut out six opponents and yielded an average of 3.8 points a game.

Notre Dame won its first national crown since 1949 with its first unbeaten season since 1953.

Lynch, a National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame scholar-athlete, is majoring in sociology and maintains a B average. He plans to enter law school after graduation.

The referee pulled the fighters apart. Terrell looked at Brooks and smiled.

Hulking North Squad Picked

Smith, McDonald Lead Contingent In Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A massive North team anchored by Michigan State's 6-7, 278-pound All-America end Bubba Smith has been named for the Senior Bowl football game Jan. 7.

The 28-man squad includes eight Big Ten Conference players and four from Sugar-Bowl bound Nebraska.

The South squad will be named next week.

The North team is the biggest ever chosen for either side in the series. It averages 224 pounds over-all.

The 18 linemen average 235 pounds and the 10 backs 203 pounds, paced by Idaho's Ray McDonald, top college runner of the year.

McDonald, 6-5 and 248, gained 1,329 yards on 259 carries during the past season. He has been clocked at 9.9 in the 100.

Carter to QB The nation's total offense leader, quarterback Virgil Carter of Brigham Young, will direct the North offense. He will work with Corey Colehour of North Dakota, who completed 53.6 per cent - 320 of 614 of his passes during his three-year career.

The North team will be coached by Norm Van Brocklin of the Minnesota Vikings and the South by Otto Graham of the Washington Redskins.

The players turn professional in the game. Most already will have been signed by the pros before they arrive in Mobile. Members of the winning team will receive $1,000 each, the losers $750.

The exhibition was the highlight of a card that also had two 10-round fights.

In the main event, Art Hernandez, 164, Omaha, won a unanimous decision over aggressive but ungainly Kelly Burden, 168, Kansas City, Mo. It was Burden's first defeat in 13 professional fights.

In the other scheduled 10-round fight Ron Marsh, 188, Minneapolis, bludgeoned Ray Vega, 184, Memphis, Tenn., for two one-half rounds before the mismatch was stopped with Vega's handler leading the chorus to end the slaughter.

Headquarters With Byrnes

Steiger Reports for Congressional Duties

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Representative William Steiger, Oshkosh Republican, reporting in this week for preliminary Congressional duties, said he was both "overwhelmed and excited" over the new job he will take over next month.

As his first order of Congressional business, Steiger announced the names of his two top staff members. Maureen Drummy, formerly of Waupun and New York City, will be his administrative assistant.

Miss Drummy has had three years service with the Republican national committee and comes to Capitol Hill from New York where she was director of the National Committee for Education in Politics, a non-profit organization financed by the Vanderbilts.

Steiger's legislative aide will be Kenneth C. Reitz, who has had Capitol Hill experience and was field man for Steiger during the campaign. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reitz, formerly of Appleton and now of Washington, D.C., where Reitz is an official of the Post Office Department.

Joins Byrnes Keith Mulligan of Oshkosh will be his home secretary. Steiger will conduct staff interviews for secretaries and other workers this week and will choose them from a pool of professional Capitol Hill personnel.

The new congressman, who is making the office of Rep. John Byrnes R-Green Bay, his headquarters, is already taking advantage of national conferences being held in the nation's capital. Today he is attending a symposium on air pollution, a subject in which he says he is vitally interested.

Mrs. Steiger has been spending the week hoping to find suitable living quarters.

Steiger was also introduced today to some Washington weather. A native of Wisconsin, where snow is not regarded as a national catastrophe, the newly elected Congressman will be amazed to see the federal panic develop in the entire area during a snowfall. As is the custom, government offices probably will be closed early this afternoon as hundreds of thousands of workers jam the streets and fill the buses ahead of schedule in an attempt to get home before becoming snow-bound en route.

Michigan '5' Wins, Evens 1966-7 Record

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Craig Dill and Jim Pitts led Michigan to an easy 91-80 basketball victory over Butler Monday night.

Dill, a 6-foot-10 senior, fired in 25 points and Pitts, another hold-over from last year's Big Ten champions, added 24.

Michigan took an early lead, raced to a 50-37 halftime margin, and was in front by as much as 22 points early in the second half.

The Wolverines used reserves liberally in winning. They evened their record at 3-3, with all the victories coming at home.

Wisconsin Milk Production Rises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported today that November milk production in only three states — Wisconsin, Minnesota and California — exceeded that of a year ago. For the country as a whole, November output was about the same as for November 1965.

In nine of the first 11 months of this year, production for the country fell below last year.

Reports Climb of Cottage Thefts On Wolf River

Outagamie County authorities Monday afternoon were informed that nine more cottages were entered at Peterson's Landing on the Wolf River near Shioc-ton.

Eight cottage entries had been reported from the same area on Monday morning. The burglaries were believed to have occurred within the last two weeks.

Cottages reported burglarized included those owned by Nyle Peterson, Victor Voight, Len Voight, Arnold Lemke, and Mrs. George Hoewisch, all of Shioc-ton; John Czarnecki, Milwaukee; Jerome Loos, Greenville; John Schuh, DePere, and Harold Van Handel, Appleton.

Authorities are continuing their investigation and are attempting to determine what is missing from each of the cottages.

The exhibition was the highlight of a card that also had two 10-round fights.

In the main event, Art Hernandez, 164, Omaha, won a unanimous decision over aggressive but ungainly Kelly Burden, 168, Kansas City, Mo. It was Burden's first defeat in 13 professional fights.

In the other scheduled 10-round fight Ron Marsh, 188, Minneapolis, bludgeoned Ray Vega, 184, Memphis, Tenn., for two one-half rounds before the mismatch was stopped with Vega's handler leading the chorus to end the slaughter.

Recovery of Ike Pleases Doctors

General Able
Briefly Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has recovered enough from Monday's gallbladder operation to get out of bed this morning and sit in a chair for 25 minutes, his doctors reported.

Brig. Gen. Philip W. Mallory, commanding general of Walter Reed Army Hospital, told reporters shortly after 11 a.m.

"I have just come from Gen. Eisenhower's suite and I am very happy to report that he continues to make very satisfactory progress."

Normal Response
"He has been up (out of bed) this morning and sat up in a chair for 25 minutes. He is back in bed now and is responding to all this very normally and just the way we want it."

In response to a question on whether Eisenhower would be able to leave the hospital before Christmas, as he has expressed hope of doing, Mallory replied: "We hope so but cannot say at this time."

He disclosed that gall bladder trouble had been suspected in the five-star general "a few months ago." He said Eisenhower at that time had developed symptoms possibly indicative of that condition.

He said these suspicions were confirmed by Walter Reed doctors Nov. 21 through an x-ray examination.

"Had Good Night"
"The general had a good night," Walter Reed Army Hospital reported this morning, one full day after the one and three-quarter hour operation.

"Multiple large and small gallstones were in the gallbladder which was removed," said the bulletin issued shortly after 5 p.m. Monday. These were the stones which Eisenhower jokingly had referred to as "rocks."

The former First Lady, Mamie, was staying near her husband in the executive suite at the hospital. The luxurious accommodations, otherwise known as the presidential suite, include bedrooms, a sitting room and a solarium.

When the general was wheeled back to his suite Mrs. Eisenhower, son John and brother Milton were waiting.

Appeal Against Voting Machines

MADISON (AP)—Kenosha has taken its challenge against Wisconsin's voting machine law to the State Supreme Court.

The city filed the necessary court records Monday to appeal an August decision upholding the constitutionality of the state requirement that all communities over 10,000 population use voting machines.

Kenosha will have until Jan. 21 to file written arguments. The state will be given time to reply before the court hears the case.

Thomas Richards, 18, 215 S. Mill St., Hortonville, died at 2:48 a.m. today at New London Community Hospital, four hours after he and another Hortonville youth were injured when their car rammed a concrete abutment on a one-lane bridge on Outagamie County Trunk M, a mile north of Hortonville.

Richards' death and that of a Cassville woman Monday hiked the Wisconsin fatality toll for the year to 1,041, compared with 971 on Dec. 13 last year and 1,020 on the same date in record-breaking 1964.

Divided Commission Vote
Holds Green Bay, Kenosha
Should Get Less Money

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The State Building Commission in a divided vote has upheld the insistence of one of its leading members for a reduction in the beginning investment in new University of Wisconsin campuses at Green Bay and in Kenosha. It left the door ajar, however, for a reconsideration during the next two months.

Sen. Jerris Leonard of Bayside, chairman of a University of Wisconsin subcommittee of the commission, was supported in a 5-3 commission vote late Monday on his motion to reduce the building budget for the two new schools from $26.7 million to $12.9 million.

Leonard said he does not oppose the ultimate expenditure of the requested amount, or more, and is only doubtful about the wisdom of costly initial investments on the campuses which are likely to require some years to attract substantial enrollments.

Surgery Won't Cure Ruby, Doctors Reveal

Only Hope Is in Use of Drugs for Widespread Cancer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The physician in charge of Jack Ruby's treatment said today Ruby's cancer has developed too far to be cured by surgery.

Dr. Jack Barnett said the only hope for a cure will lie in chemotherapy, which is treatment by drugs. He ruled out radiological treatment because of the widespread cancer.

Barnett is associate professor of internal medicine at Southwestern Medical School, a few steps from Parkland Hospital where Ruby was taken Friday from his jail cell.

Another Tumor
The physician also disclosed at a morning news conference that another tumor was found Monday in the pleura — the lining of the chest. He said it was the same sort of cancer found Saturday in a lymph node in Ruby's neck.

Ruby, 35, is the nondrinking, nonsmoking onetime night club operator who killed Lee Harvey Oswald, later identified by the Leonard noted that the planning for the two campuses is thus far only in the starting stages, and assured University of Wisconsin administrators that if they can prove later that he was wrong, he will support their original request. He suggested another review of the matter can be held in 30 days, if required.

Recommendation Only

The building commission action, while persuasive, is not necessarily final, in any event. Its literal effect is as a recommendation to Gov. Warren P. Knowles, who is now considering his own biennial budget recommendations to the Legislature. He can modify the commission's budget proposal, in his own budget message, as he chooses.

The Legislature also has the right to amend the governor's budget in any direction it chooses. Thus the University

Court Decision,
Predicts Victory

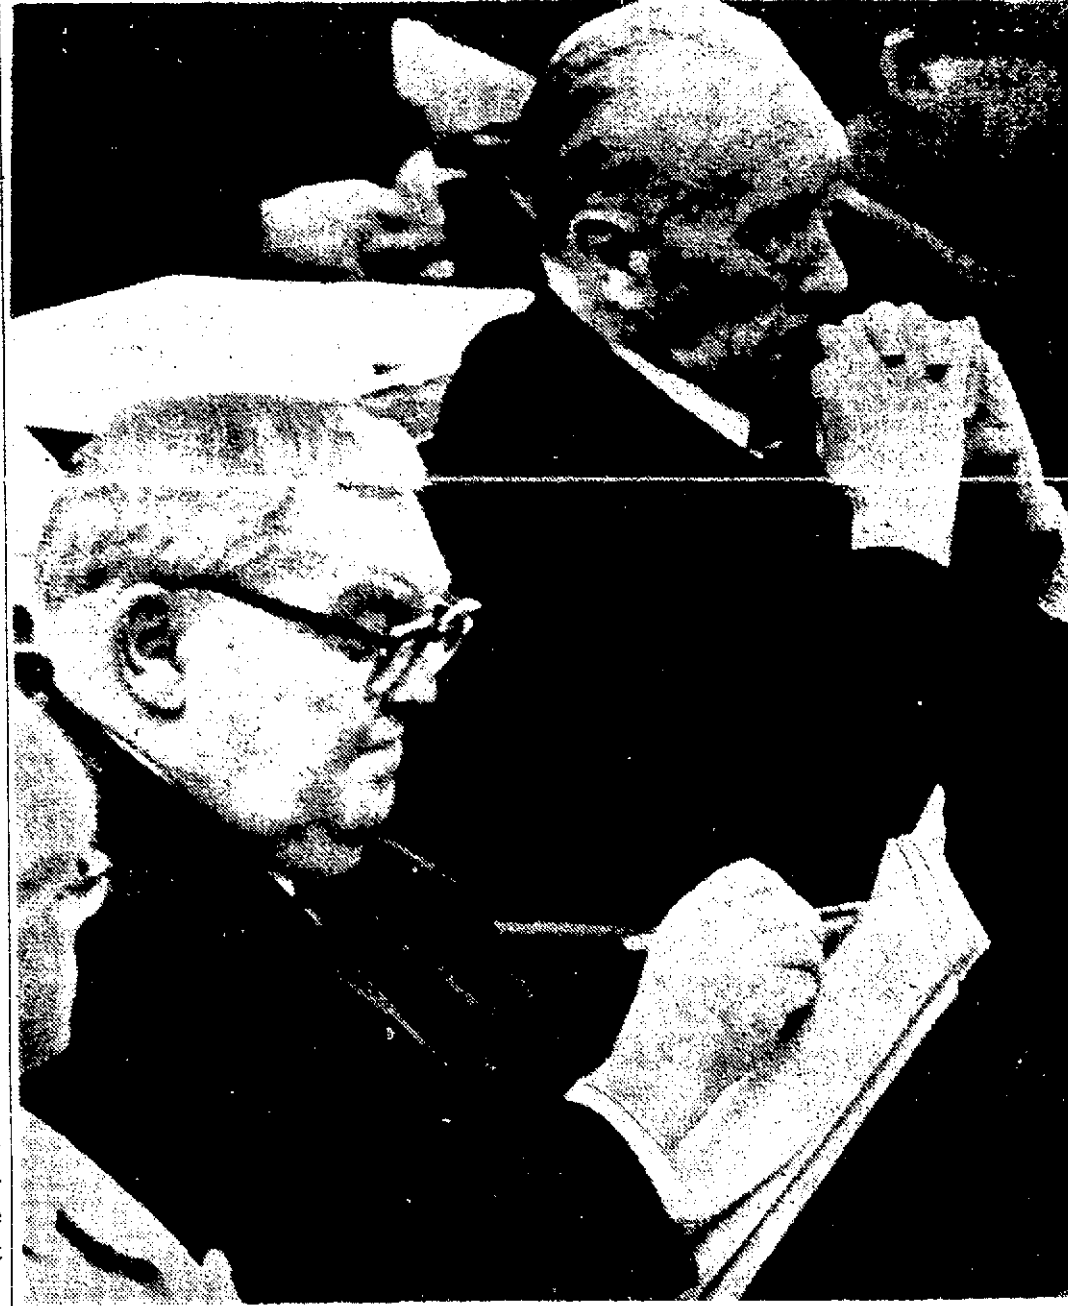

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A check of Georgia legislators, who will elect the state's next governor, gives Democrat Lester G. Maddox almost a 4-to-1 edge over Republican candidate Howard Callaway. But many lawmakers still were undecided.

The General Assembly, consisting of 259 lawmakers, has 229 Democrats — 46 out of 54 in the Senate and 183 out of 205 in the House. The legislature is expected to select the next governor Jan. 10, the day after the next legislative session begins.

The Associated Press sampling shows: Maddox 34, Callaway 10, undecided 34.

Cosmonauts Grounded

Reds De-emphasizing Space
Spending in Favor of Military

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has cut by one-third its spending this year on nonmilitary space research while increasing general military spending, Communist and Western sources said today.

Despite the space cut, which has kept Soviet cosmonauts grounded for 21 months, the Soviet Union is likely to launch two or three unmanned spacecraft to Mars next month, the informants said.

The reports could not be confirmed because of tight secrecy here around both military expenditures and space plans.

Some Western diplomats cast doubt on the report of a one-third cut for space research.

This cut in an undisclosed original sum was ordered early this year, the sources said. The reason they gave was a strain on the economy caused by too many demands for limited resources. Heavy industry continues to receive the traditional high priority of the Communist regime, consumers have been promised more, and the armed forces are being modernized and strengthened.

The strain continues and it appears to be a major reason that the five-year economic plan, which should have gone into effect last Jan. 1, is still not ready. A stopgap plan for 1966 was used and another is ready for 1967.

The reported cut in space research does not rule out a manned launching next year. In fact, the sources said something spectacular has been ordered as part of activities building up to the job.

Both Callaway and Maddox were at the meeting Monday seeking to convince legislators that each was the best man for the job.

But the two rivals gave different viewpoints on the outcome of the U.S. Supreme Court's 5-4 ruling allowing the legislature to choose the man they want to fill the governor's chair.

"Very Tough"
"I think it would be very tough on a man to be named governor if he did not win a majority of the votes by the people," Callaway said.

But Maddox, hailing the decision, said he was sure he would be Georgia's next governor because of legislative support.

Some legislators, dissatisfied with both candidates, reportedly have started a movement to block either one from claiming the governorship.

Atty. Gen. Arthur Bolton, asked what would be the result if the lawmakers fail to make a decision, said that Gov. Carl Sanders possibly could remain in office.

But a cutback could explain the failure of the Soviet Union to perfect space walking techniques, which their last cosmonauts pioneered in March 1965, or to develop space rendezvous methods.

Scientists might be saving money for a major step forward with larger rockets which would put the Soviet Union in the moon race with the United States.

The sources said Mars landings are a strong possibility for the period around Jan. 4, when the earth and Mars will be in one of the favorable periods of approach.

Extension of Truce
Will Not Result

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials believe the Viet Cong are unwilling to accept Pope Paul's appeal to extend the Christmas truce in the war in Vietnam into a peace-seeking cease-fire.

"We regret that the Viet Cong have apparently rejected the sincere appeal of Pope Paul in the cause of peace," the department said in a statement issued Monday. "The Viet Cong response obviously lessens very greatly the prospects for any positive results."

The department's conclusions were drawn after a Viet Cong broadcast Saturday accused the United States of "Machiavellian and perfidious" schemes in pressing "the sinful aggression" in Vietnam.

Distinguishes 'Official Deception'

Court Gives Crime Fighters More Leeway

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — In careful language the Supreme Court has sanctioned limited government use of informers and undercover agents to combat crime.

That, in sum, is the essence of the court's actions Monday in upholding the convictions of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa, former union lawyer Z.T. Osborn Jr., and Duke Lee Lewis, a small-time narcotics peddler.

Claimed Trickery

gambits that some of them found displeasing.

Hoffa, Osborn and Lewis of Boston all claimed they had been tricked by the government: Hoffa by a paid Justice Department informer recruited from union ranks, Osborn through a tape recorder strapped to the back of a man he thought was working for him and Lewis by a federal agent posing as a marijuana customer.

But their claims did not cause the court to reverse their convictions. Hoffa's eight-year prison sentence for jury tampering was affirmed 6 to 1, Osborn's bribery conviction was upheld 8 to 1 and, in the third decision,

Lewis' narcotics conviction was affirmed 8 to 1.

The right of privacy, even against government intrusion, is protected by the prohibition the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution puts on "unreasonable searches and seizures."

However, the high court has taken varying views on whether it is an insurmountable bar against government action.

'Official Deception'

Monday the court found in the circumstances of the three cases before it sufficient reason to tip the scales in favor of what Chief Justice Earl Warren called "official deception in order to gather evidence for criminal prosecutions."

Justice Potter Stewart, in the controlling opinion in the Hoffa case, took pains to point out that government informer Edward Grady Partin, a fellow Teamsters official, did not enter Hoffa's hotel suite "by force or by stealth."

Partin reported back to the government that Hoffa was trying to bribe members of a federal jury trying him in Nashville, Tenn., on a conspiracy charge.

Hoffa, said Stewart, "was not relying on the security of the hotel room; he was relying upon his misplaced confidence that Partin would not reveal his wrongdoing."

Dems Study 'United Fund' For Campaigns

Party Would Head Appeal, Dole Out Money to Aspirants

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A "United Fund" method of financing the Wisconsin Democratic Party and its candidates may be proposed by the Democratic state committee to make its budget management more efficient and fund-raising more fruitful.

The plan was filed here during the weekend by Assemblyman Frank Nikolay, Clark County, retiring Democratic majority leader in the state assembly, who said it is the only means through which the party will achieve its desired stature as the vehicle for liberal action in Wisconsin.

Chairman Responds

Chairman Louis Hanson responded enthusiastically, reporting that the number and variety of individual candidate fund-raising dinners and other financing devices have severely handicapped the party's own fund-raising efforts in recent years.

He said that in 1965 when Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey and Sen. William Proxmire sponsored money-raising dinners with the Kennedy brothers as speakers, they virtually smothered the official state party financing dinner, held shortly afterwards.

Under the Nikolay plan, all or virtually all, fund solicitations would be made by the party and its local agents. This group would budget according to its conception of candidate needs and prospects.

Meet Resistance

Several members of the committee said office-holders and candidates for high office, in view of the heavy financing requirements of the times, would resist such a united funding project. But Nikolay said the party could raise its financing sights to acknowledge their reasonable campaign budget requirements.

The Democratic leaders did not mention it, but the united fund scheme would follow the procedure of the Republican state organization on behalf of its endorsed candidates.

Nikolay this year, although he lost his own Clark County seat to a Republican, was the chief manager of a united Democratic legislative campaign which was hailed as the most successful the Democrats have ever operated. Some observers felt that without mutual fund raising, publicity and other mutual efforts, the Democrats would have lost more of their legislative seats in the strong Republican sweep.

Appleton Man Fractures Jaw In Calumet Crash

CHILTON — Jerome P. Short, 54, 613 W. Packard St., Appleton was taken to Calumet Memorial Hospital suffering from facial cuts and a fractured jaw after an accident that demolished his car about 4:45 p.m. Saturday.

The one-car crash occurred about seven miles of here on State 55 and County Trunk F.

Short told Calumet County police he was traveling west on F when his brakes failed on a hill causing the car to swerve across the highway and strike a utility pole and a sign at the Lakeview Motel.

Short is reported in satisfactory condition by a hospital spokesman.

Musketeer Gets His Deer

Charles Pottenger, 32, West Court, got his six point buck back late this afternoon.

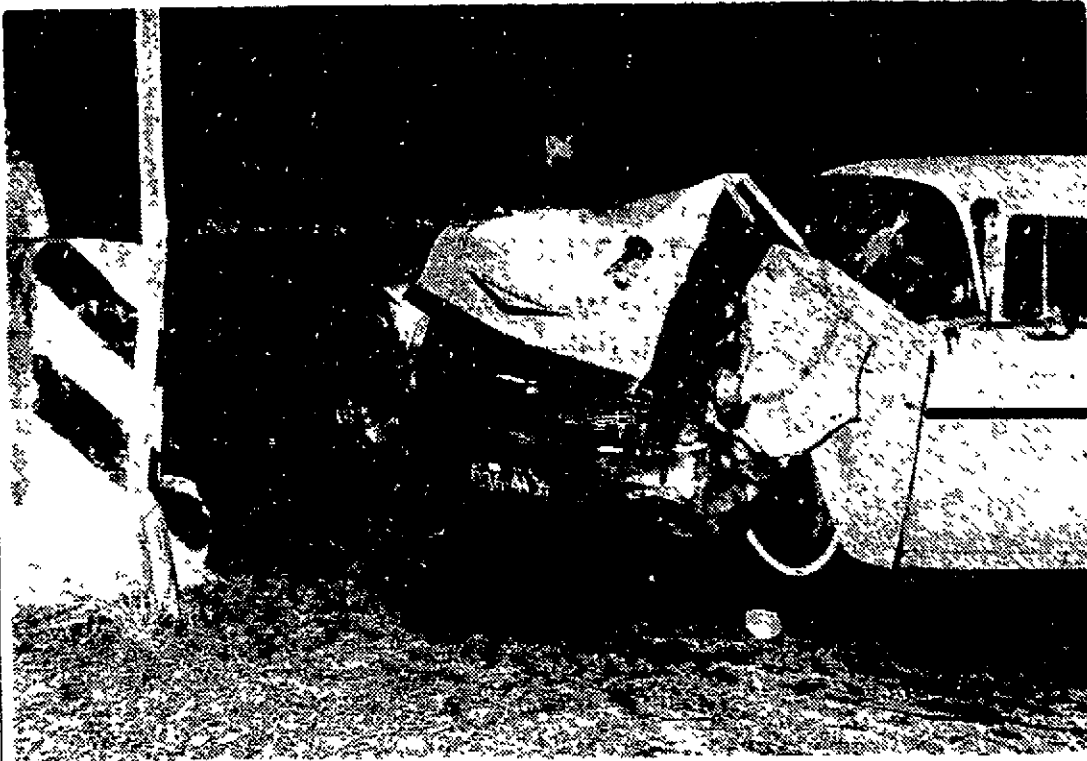

And Duane G. Ellis, 22, 521 N. Vine St., who stole the deer from Pottenger Nov. 19, this morning began serving a five months jail sentence.

Pottenger shot the buck in the Town of Bovina Nov. 19, using a musket from his gun collection. He dragged the deer halfway out of the woods when he was summoned to aid a companion who also had shot a deer.

Remove Tag

When he returned, he found two men had removed his tag from the deer's leg, and inserted their own. They were dragging the animal toward their car. Pottenger obtained their back tag numbers and the license number of their car and notified wardens who found the deer in an Appleton youth's garage.

UW Center Expansion to Await Vocational Decision

Valley School Officials Told to Seek Temporary Office Space

The tenacity of future vocational schooling in the Fox Cities Monday night caused trustees of the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Center to proceed cautiously with an investigation of office space shortage at the center.

Trustees advised center administrators to explore the cost and feasibility of temporary or rented structures in lieu of approving a major expansion, which trustees indicated, would very likely come at a time when both Winnebago and Outagamie counties are attempting to resolve the current vocational school district issue.

The state was recently divided into vocational-technical education districts. Winnebago County south of Neenah-Menasha was originally attached to the Fond du Lac district by the reorganization. Later action changed the boundaries, attaching all of Winnebago County to a district with Outagamie, Calumet and Waupaca counties.

Orin King, Oshkosh, chairman of the center board of trustees, said, "It is difficult for me to say anything about this campus without knowing what is going to happen with the vocational school."

Not Expedient

Russell DeLaHunt, trustee and Outagamie County Board supervisor from Kaukauna said, "Politically, it just isn't expedient to talk expansion now."

Acting dean of the center, Alan Bussel, said in some cases, three faculty members are now sharing office space designed to accommodate two instructors.

There are 53 full and part-time faculty members, Bussel said. Some of them are sharing the same desk, the dean added.

While center administrators cited a need for office space, there was no immediate indication that additional classroom space was needed.

This year's enrollment at the school fell short of expectations, they said. Seven hundred students were expected to enroll but only 647 were on hand for the start of the first term.

Bussel cited recent military draft increases as a reason for the small enrollment.

Trustees agree that enrollment at the center may not increase greatly. DeLaHunt said the highest number of students will probably enroll in 1970.

A new state University in Green Bay and the possibility of a new vocational school somewhere in the Fox Cities were also listed as reasons for careful planning in expansion of the center on Midway Road in the Town of Menasha.

Trustees instructed administrators to investigate the use of existing buildings in the area, including homes, for additional office space. Trailer homes, internal partitioning for offices and temporary buildings will also be considered for housing faculty offices.

Tipsy Driving Count Denied

WAUPACA — Lawrence E. Neubauer, 28, 717 Ware St., Waupaca, denied driving while under the influence of intoxicants Monday when he was arraigned in Municipal Justice Court.

Municipal Justice George Whalen set Jan. 13 as a trial date. Neubauer was arrested here at 1:30 a.m. Monday by Waupaca city police.

$200 or two months in jail on the first count, and four months in jail on the second charge.

Traffic Charge

A bench warrant also had been issued for Ellis on two traffic charges brought by Appleton police.

He was sentenced to 30 days in jail for driving after his license was revoked, and was fined $20 and costs or another 10 days in jail for a stop sign violation. Both the city offenses occurred Nov. 4 at Seymour and Oneida streets.

Ellis told authorities that although he did not go to Mexico, he had gone to California, but then decided to return. He faces more than seven months in jail if he does not pay the fines.

Wardens had been holding Pottenger's deer — on ice — pending the disposition of the Ellis case. Warden Dale Morley turned the deer over to Pottenger this afternoon.

Roof Fire at New London Packing Firm

NEW LONDON — A fire Sunday at the Quality Packing House on County Trunk D damaged the roof of a smoke house.

No estimate of the damage was made and the cause has not been determined. A New London Fire Department official said the blaze started around a vent pipe in the smoke house roof.

The official said the fire apparently had been smoldering around the pipe for some time.

New London firemen were called at 10:34 a.m. Sunday and were at the scene until 12:15 p.m. Two Hortonville Fire Department trucks arrived shortly after New London.

The meat processing plant is located in the Town of Horton, south of New London.

Fremont Man Denies Speeding

WAUPACA — Duane Mielke, 42, route 1, Fremont, entered a plea of innocent to a charge of speeding 100 miles per hour in a 55 m.p.h. zone when he appeared Monday in Municipal Justice Court.

Municipal Justice George Whalen set trial for 9:30 a.m. Jan. 12. Mielke was released on his own recognizance.

Mielke was arrested by Waupaca County traffic police.

New London Schools To Dismiss Earlier

Board Feels 10-Minute Change in Closing Will Get Students Home Before Dark

NEW LONDON — School district pupils will be dismissed 10 minutes earlier, the board of education decided Monday.

School administrators felt the early dismissal would enable the majority of students to be delivered at home before dark. The plan will go into effect as soon as schedules are worked out.

To compensate for earlier dismissal, the elementary schools are planning to shave the time from their noon hour. The junior and senior high school will either start 10 minutes earlier in the morning or start school five minutes earlier and cut five minutes from the noon recess.

Table Action

Action on a Town of Mukwonago bid of $3,000 for the Northport School was tabled. Board members had heard rumors that action was pending to appeal a vote of town electors to buy the school. Town electors approved purchasing the school Dec. 6 by a narrow 96-92 vote.

Instead of accepting the offer and having to refund the money, as was the case on an earlier bid, the board decided to wait until the matter was resolved. In other action the board:

King Veterans Home to Get $3 Million Nursing Center

Second Facility to be Similar To One Now Under Construction; $4.5 Million Hospital Rejected

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The state Building Commission Monday approved the appropriation of $3 million for a second intensive nursing care building at the Grand Army Home at King.

At the same time, however, the commission denied a request of the state Department of Veterans Affairs for the approval of the expenditure of $4.5 million for the construction of a new hospital to replace one constructed in 1927.

In denying the request by a 5 to 3 vote, the commission noted department director John Moses' statement that the present hospital building is sound although old-dated, that present needs would not fill the new facility, and conflicts between state experts as to the completion time needed for the structure.

Four Year Estimate

Moses said that the hospital, needed to prepare for the onrush of World War I veterans now starting to make use of the state facility, would take about four years to complete from drawing board to occupancy. State engineer Ralph Culbertson, in answer to queries from Commission Secretary Jerry Emmer, estimated that the completion time would be about three years.

Ohio 'Messiah' Singers Return To New London

NEW LONDON — Six New London Senior High School students returned here about 4 a.m. Monday after participating in "The Messiah" Saturday at Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio.

M. G. Kaehr, vocal music director, arranged for the students to participate in the festival.

Kaehr said the students had rated high in their competition for scholarships to the school of music.

Making the trip were Charles Tews, Sally Polzin, Bonnie Drews, Shirley Dey, Richard Norby and Christine Toltzman. Kaehr said arrangements were made with Richard Bauer, Madison, Ohio, a 1965 graduate of Heidelberg, to sing the tenor soloist part in "The Messiah" to be presented at 3 p.m. Jan. 8 at the Washington School auditorium.

If that is the case, Moses said, the facility could be delayed. But he advised against it, noting that the existing structure is "not in tune with modern medical practices and needs."

It is possible that federal funds could be used to finance a portion of the hospital, Moses said, if an existing federal program is extended beyond its expiration date two years from now, and if a wing of the hospital is designed for intensive hospitalized nursing care.

The federal program will also finance about $1.2 million of the $3 million costs of the nursing care building approved. The building, with some first floor modifications, will be based on the same plans as are being used to construct a $2.8 million nursing care facility on the Army Home grounds now.

Use Same Plan

Both facilities will have 200 bed capacities when completed.

The same plans are being used, Moses said, to speed development of plans of the second facility to insure federal participation in the project. Using the same plans, he noted, will allow the application for federal funds to be submitted to the U.S. Veterans Administration within the next few months.

The nursing care administered at the home in the new buildings will be mainly geriatric care, he noted. But all types of illnesses and physical problems are treated at the state facility, he said.

After the presentation, Moses described the present hospital building at the "bottleneck" of the home. The capacity of the medical center has been expanded from 75 to 96 beds, he said, but it slows the workings

Brillion Policeman Quits, Then Is Fired

Action Taken Immediately After John Saubert Offers Resignation

BRILLION — John Saubert, before Saubert's contract with the city expires.

Wolff fired Saubert on the spot, saying that in keeping with the policies of "firmness, fairness and consistency" Saubert was being discharged and relieved of his police duties effective midnight Monday.

Contract Expires

The mayor said Saubert failed to fulfill the conditions of his contract which expires Dec. 31.

Saubert this morning said, "I would have worked up to the first of January if they wanted me to but I thought I was doing the right thing by giving them two weeks notice."

Saubert has accepted a position as Calumet County traffic patrolman and will begin work there Jan. 2.

Give Reasons

Other reasons given by Wolff for discharging Saubert included: —Failure to adhere to orders given by his superior Police Chief Reuben Huntington.

—Transporting unauthorized persons in a police squad car.

—Failure to perform certain police activities after being asked to do so.

Bought Car

Saubert said this morning he bought the unlicensed car from a Brillion resident and drove it to his (Saubert's) home, also in Brillion, a distance of less than one mile.

The city will immediately begin advertising for a new police officer, according to reports. The city's force is made up of two men, the police chief and one officer.

Saubert also resigned his post as city assessor. He said he will remain in Brillion until his children complete the school term next spring, and will then seek housing in the southern part of Calumet County.

Appleton's Share of State Utility Tax Amounts to $232,790

Appleton received a check for $232,790 from the state today as its share of the annual public utility tax.

Treasurer Ray Feuerstein said the total was $16,000 more than last year.

And it was about $6,000 higher than anticipated in the revenue category of the 1966 city budget.

Feuerstein said most of the $232,790 could be attributable to the power company here.

Board Fails to Add Golf to School Agenda

New London Club Offers Use of Links If Class Is Supervised

NEW LONDON — Little headway was made Monday by the board of education toward adding golf to the physical education program at New London Senior High School.

Objections to the program were cleared up as the board met with Herman Platte, representative of the New London Golf Club, but no indication of school adoption of golf as a curricular, extra-curricular or interscholastic sport was evident.

Board members indicated they would support the golf club's instructional program as much as possible and that they might assist with procuring an instructor.

Burden of instruction and supervision would fall on the golf club, the board indicated.

Possible Program

Platte said the club was offering the use of the course as a possible physical education program or extra-curricular program supervised by school personnel. The step was the biggest undertaken by the club to open its course to non-members.

The open membership would apply only to youngsters taking lessons under supervised instruction, but still was opened to children of non-members as well as members of the private club.

No limit was being placed on the number of children using the course at one time, Platte said, as long as they were properly supervised.

Continuation of classes for youngsters, conducted during the past few seasons by J. N. Wells as part of the club's program, are indicated he would not return for the 1967 season.

No Plans

At present no definite plan has been made, Platte said, to replace Wells.

"We are talking about an educational-instructional program aimed at creating an interest in golf and not in team competition," Platte said. The team issue, to which the board objected, was a misunderstanding and was not promoted by the golf club or its board of directors, but by the local weekly newspaper, Platte said.

Bulldog Jayvees Lose to Shawano, Clintonville '55'

NEW LONDON — The high school jayvee basketball team suffered its second and third straight defeats Friday and Saturday dropping contests to Clintonville on Friday, 60-47, and Shawano on Saturday, 71-47.

The Bulldogs trailed Clintonville 12-13 at the end of the first period, but then rallied for a 28-20 lead at the intermission. Clintonville came back to tie the score at 38-38 going into the final period.

New London collapsed in the final stanza as they were outscored 22-9. Olson with 16 and Torborg's 15 points paced the Truakers. Jim Klatt hit 13 and Bill Rieckmann 12 to pace New London.

The Shawano Indians poured in 26 first quarter points and from then on it was no contest. Schroeder topped the Indians with 18 points. Brisk added 13 to the victors while Bill Rieckmann notched 15 and Norman Myers 12 for New London.

Kindergartners Give Parties at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The Dellwood kindergarten children will have parties for their parents Wednesday with the morning class entertaining at 9:30 a.m. and the afternoon class at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Clifford Rafoth is the teacher. Mrs. Kenneth Raisler is chairman for the morning lunch committee, and Mrs. Lawrence Kemmer, the afternoon committee.

Any team would result from interest of the youngsters and action by the board of education, he said.

Eugene Fuhrmann, a board member, said previous objections were raised on the team issue, because members felt it would be selective and aimed at children of golf club members who were able to practice without restrictions at the local course.

Major Question

Major question raised about golf being a physical education program was the time element in transporting students to the course located about 3½ miles north of here on U.S. 45. Class periods are 55-minutes long.

Platte said the idea was to get youngsters interested in golf. The club's instructional program has been attended mainly by New London children because of non-school promotion he indicated.

A second meeting was suggested after the club had an idea of what program it would be offering in 1967.

Bear Creek Lutherans Call New Minister

Expect Word From South Dakota Pastor After the Holidays

BEAR CREEK — A call has been sent to the Rev. Edward Jones of Rapid City, S.D. to be pastor of the Grace and Trinity Lutheran churches, but the congregations do not expect a reply until after the holidays.

The vacancy was created when the Rev. Carl Ehrfurth accepted the pastorate of the Hope Lutheran Church at De Pere.

Farewell Talks

"Wonderful Remembrances We Have Had Together" was the title of Pastor Ehrfurth's farewell address delivered to both churches. The Rev. G. Krueger, Clintonville, a retired pastor, is serving as interim pastor and the Rev. William Christian as an emergency pastor.

Pastor Ehrfurth is from the Green Bay area, where he attended high school. He served in the United States Army before graduating from Concordia Seminary at Springfield, Ill. He served a church in Connecticut for two years and then returned to Wisconsin where he served as pastor of St. Peter church at Forestville for seven years. He answered the call of the Trinity and Grace Lutheran churches here in April, 1962.

Pastor Ehrfurth's new church is in a suburban section of De Pere and has a congregation of 302 with 195 communicant members. He will also counsel inmates at the Green Bay Reformatory. His two churches here had a combined communicant membership of 375 and 529 baptized members.

Percentage Rises More Chilton Grads Continue Education

CHILTON — About 36 per cent of the high school's 1966 graduating class, or 41 of 113 responding students are furthering their education in colleges and universities, according to a recently completed survey conducted by guidance director, James Skarda.

This is about the same as in 1965, Skarda said.

However, the percentage attending vocational schools and technical institutes has increased from about 20 per cent to 25 per cent, the survey showed.

And, the total engaged in some form of post-high school education jumped from 56 per cent in 1965 to 61 per cent of the 1966 graduates.

Responses to the questionnaire sent out by the guidance office showed that 17 graduates were attending vocational schools and technical institutes; six in business schools; three attending beauty schools; and three at private technical schools.

A total of 34 students replied that they were employed, as compared with 32 in 1965. This is a decrease from 34 to 31 per cent.

Fields of employment included six engaged in farming; seven, clerical; one, drafting; 19 working in production; one store clerk, and one welder.

Wisconsin State Universities at Oshkosh and Stevens Point and the University of Wisconsin at Madison were the chief drawing cards of Chilton graduates, according to the survey.

Mrs. Milford Etheridge was re-elected orator. Other officers are Mrs. Stanley Williams, past orator; Mrs. Ward Winchester, vice orator; Mrs. Earl Miller, chancellor; Mrs. Lester Tellock, recorder; Mrs. E. C. Thinker, receiver; Mrs. T. A. Patterson, marshal; Mrs. Herbert Riemer, assistant marshal; Mrs. Matt Dahm, inner sentinel; Mrs. Leon Pelishek, outer sentinel; Mrs. Riemer, manager for three years, and Dr. Irving Auld, camp physician.

The appointed Graces include Mrs. Max Schrader, Faith; Myrtle Rockman, Courage; Mrs. Richard Jewson, Modesty; Mrs. Ed Grothe, Unselfishness, and Mrs. Fred Guyer, Endurance. Mrs. Lester Sawyer will be musician.

The annual Christmas party was held at the December meeting at the Veterans Building. Hostesses were Mrs. Thimke and Mrs. Jewson.

Affidavit of Prejudice Filed Against Keller by Agent for Left Guard

An affidavit of prejudice was filed Friday against Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller in the case of a Neenah man who is charged following investigation by state agents.

Judge Urban P. Van Susteren was named to preside in the trial of William S. Martine, 34, 308 Edgewood Drive, agent for The Left Guard Charcoal House in the Town of Grand Chute.

Judge Keller had set trial for May 24 after Martine last week pleaded innocent of permitting the obstruction of a full and complete view of the interior of the premises (of The Left Guard) from the outside during hours in which the sale of liquor is prohibited.

Martine is free on $250 bond. The charge was brought by agents of the Wisconsin Department of Taxation, Division of Beverage and Cigarette Taxes, following an investigation early the morning of Nov. 29.

Lawrence Classics Majors Now May Live, Study at Roman Center

Classics majors at Lawrence University will now have an opportunity to live and study in Rome under a program arranged by the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies.

At a recent meeting, the Lawrence faculty voted to accept an invitation to join the newly opened center. Its purpose is to provide classics students with first-hand knowledge of the Greek and Roman world they study while at the same time continuing their regular class work.

Approximately 20 institutions, including both large and small colleges, are members of the center. It began operation in February, 1966, financed chiefly through grants from the Danforth and Old Dominion Foundations.

The center admits 30 classics majors who spend a 20-week term in Rome. Courses in Greek and Latin, similar to those taught at the participating institutions, are supplemented by field work within the area of Rome and by several trips to sites of special interest in Italy, Greece and Sicily.

Approved For Credit
The Lawrence faculty approved the granting of six course credits, the equivalent of the work done in two Lawrence terms, for participation in the program. The center acts as an extension of the faculty of each college rather than as an independent institution, according to Dr. Maurice P. Cunningham, chairman of the Lawrence classics department and Hiram A. Jones Professor of Classics.

Prof. Norman Doenges of Dartmouth College heads the center's faculty for 1966-67.

Lisagor quoted one person who had read the manuscript as saying, "Jackie now regrets having poured out her soul to Manchester as if he were a psychiatrist." Manchester was selected by the Kennedys to write the book.

The Daily News story said: "The manuscript is understood to contain hitherto unpublished material involving President Johnson and the Kennedys. These details are likely to increase existing tension between of the home as all admissions must pass through the hospital for examination. After being assigned to housing at the home, many members are immediately returned to the hospital for care, he said.

Speed Admission
The new facility would have allowed faster admission and treatment of members while allowing for expansion due to the aging population of World War I veterans, according to Moses.

Completed Oct. 24
The first facility of the new building program, the central service building, constructed at a cost exceeding $900,000 was completed Oct. 24. The administration is in the process of moving into the quarters at the present time. Open house is expected after Jan. 1, according to home authorities.

Ground breaking for the first intensive care unit, a five-story nursing home under construction will be connected to the central service building with a tunnel, which also will connect to the Burns-Clemmens Infirmary. Construction cost is estimated at $54,000.

Six duplex cottages, to be constructed on the shores of George Lake, is programmed to start in April with construction costs estimated at $108,000. The new facilities will replace some of the older cottages being used by married couples, authorities said.

Electrical and telephone cables for the southern portion of the home grounds are being placed underground at an estimated cost of $117,000.

Fast Pace
"The building program is going at break-neck pace and in another five years you won't recognize the Grand Army Home," Arden Borden, home commander, said.

The home is also scheduled for a $1 million sewer and water plant installation, according to authorities.

Compassion Is Not Dead

Regardless of the circumstances surrounding the jailing of a young Waupaca mother last week, it was comforting to know that during a time when passiveness seems to be the vogue, there still are people willing to aid their fellowman.

People who cared saved the confessed game violator from spending Christmas in jail, away from her three young children.

An unidentified man paid the $75 fine and costs needed for her freedom. There were many others ready to open their purses. Sheriff's deputies were kept busy answering calls from people wanting to pay the woman's fine — people who said they did not know her, but wanted her out of jail and back with her children.

Several fund drives were started. The money will be turned over to responsible agencies and reportedly will be used in part for Christmas gifts for the children.

We like to think this type of compassion is a little stronger in the Fox River Valley than anywhere else.

Salvation Through War Has Its Price

The American public may get periodically shaken up over reports from Vietnam that the people of that country are not eternally grateful for our assistance in fighting their war. There have been more and more stories of disillusion, of graft, of actual conflict between Americans and South Vietnamese. But Americans should really be more concerned about apparent efforts to hush up such stories on the grounds that they are good propaganda for the Reds. Such conflicts are bound to occur and are a part of war.

Earlier this year when one city and part of a province were on the verge of rebellion against the government or at least the authority of Premier Ky, it took American troops to keep the potential rebels from opening fire but we did not hear about the episode for several weeks. A Marine officer has been reprimanded and perhaps passed over for promotion because he told newsmen about the panic of South Vietnamese troops which caused him to order American troops to fire upon them so that the majority could escape a Viet Cong trap. It is only now coming out that transfers of officers by Premier Ky, especially in the Mekong Delta area, have come because of conflicts over how to fight the war between American and Vietnamese officers. Undoubtedly there are a great many more individual such episodes. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge has, in some concern, requested stricter regulations governing off-duty appearances of the American military which indicates that there is growing resentment among Vietnamese civilians to what they consider improper behavior.

Such news is grist for the propaganda mills of Hanoi. But we must also recognize that if they didn't have such news, the North Vietnamese would invent it. It is far more important for the American public to know of the conflicts and to understand them in some measure than to have them bottled up under the guise of classified information.

It may not be quite accurate to say that war is not a civilized business. Under the progress of our civilization wars have become ever more destructive and, more seriously, ever more regardless of the status of those maimed and killed. The unrestricted bombing by both sides in World War II was the most appalling example. Today the United States is attempting to avoid such attacks upon civilians and up to now our bombing raids have been concentrated upon strategic centers in North Vietnam and not upon the cities themselves. But the war in South Vietnam is a confusing one. Both through accident, misinformation and the nature of the war, a great many civilians, including small children, have been killed, orphaned or maimed. We no longer are given the figures of estimates of how many South Vietnamese civilians we kill for every Viet Cong. And the Viet Cong reprisals and acts of terrorism are completely without concern for human life.

The trouble is that it is much easier to fight a war if we believe that the field is simply divided between the good guys and the bad. There actually has appeared to be a more realistic view taken of the Vietnamese conflict by American officials and the opposition to the war among some segments of the press has probably meant a balance of reporting. But we fool only ourselves when we try to insist that there are not sordid sides to the military situation in Vietnam.

However appealing is the argument, the United States is not fighting a war in Vietnam to protect the Vietnamese people from an oppressor. They have never known anything else and there is a form of oppression too in the inflation and corruption that follows such a military buildup in an undeveloped country. We are fighting because our government feels that communism would sweep all of Southeast Asia and threaten the world if we didn't. At least that can be the only rational reason for our involvement since there are people being oppressed all over the world. But such a reason also means that we take a cavalier attitude toward the Vietnamese people themselves as they are simply pawns in a massive worldwide struggle.

This hardly seems the way to offer leadership toward peace, justice and democracy to struggling peoples. But at least let us not start getting annoyed at the South Vietnamese if they don't always appreciate the way in which salvation has come to their shores.

Combined Locks Youth Center

Combined Locks Jaycees are showing a commendable concern for the youth of their village as they currently study and discuss a proposed youth center. The idea of a public recreational center deserves not only the attention of one group but of all the adults and teen-agers involved.

The use in Appleton of the YMCA's Den and the Cavern of St. Joseph Roman Catholic Church has shown that youth centers can serve a valuable function in the community. Besides providing a place of activity where youth can let off excess energy in a harmless and enjoyable manner, such establishments can include adults willing to talk and challenge the thinking of young people. The Cavern, with its Capuchin fathers and conversation over a cup of coffee, is a prime example of how successful such an idea can become.

Survival of the Fittest

A University of Minnesota research project has come up with some differences that a lot of men and maybe even some women have suspected.

Women, it seems, have far stronger muscles in the inner ear than do men. They are more sensitive to high-pitched sounds such as shrill whistles but have a greater resistance to low-pitched sounds. In fact, this may indicate that women would have less hearing damage over long periods of time in industries where huge machines rumble and roar than do men.

Report on Holiday Business

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for Dec. 20, 1866.

The holiday trade is very brisk at those places where preparation has been made thereto. Poultry and beef have been sold in quantities gratifying to the dealers, but we haven't facts before us as to the demand for "the jolly good ale" described with such spirit and zest in the Crescent's Christmas article last week.

Toys, pictures and books, however, seem to carry the day, especially at Turner and Fernandez' bookstore. Choice gift books have disappeared, chromos have vanished, silver and plated ware went off, sleds slid out of doors, toys squeaked their farewells, jewelry shone for the last time in their show-cases, work boxes worked their way into private homes and hiding, and standard books soon will take up

The Christmas spirit is in the air.

Kraft Writes

Tax Increase Now Looks Like It Might Help Johnson Politically

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — It is more and more apparent that the question of a tax rise is going to be determined less by the truths of the new economics than by the moralities of the old politics.

Kraft

In that curious situation, a tax increase could yield the President rich dividends. It could provide the means for creating a new climate of faith in the Johnson administration.

As developed early this year, the original argument for a tax rise was a pure case of the new economics. The theory was that excess demand, chiefly in the form of private investment, was forcing up prices. Just as the new economics prescribed a tax decrease to spur demand and end recession in 1961, so early in 1966 it called for a tax increase to curb demand and stem inflation.

But since then, the economic outlook has changed. While pressure on prices is heavy, it comes mainly from wage increases sought to keep workers' purchasing power in step with last year's price increases. Demand, especially in the auto field, shows signs of slowing down. In these circumstances, a tax increase could do little to restrain prices. It might — by depressing demand too sharply — even precipitate an economic tailspin.

CHANGE IN THE MIX

As soon as the economic case crumbled, there developed a combined political-economic argument for a tax increase to accomplish what was called a change in the mix.

The theory was that anti-inflationary efforts so far had relied almost exclusively on the tight credit policy of the Federal Reserve Board. As a result, there was a virtual depression in the home-building industry which is heavily dependent on easily available mortgage money.

A tax increase, it was reasoned, would be used as a signal to the Federal Reserve to lower interest rates, making new money available for home-building. Thus the tax rise would not decrease total demand, precipitating a recession. It would merely check demand in some areas to the advantage of demand in the home-building industry.

But it now appears very doubtful that the Federal Reserve Board would, or indeed could, change the mix in that way. For an easing of credit conditions in this country would probably cause an outflow of capital from the United States to countries with high interest rates. And that in turn would seriously aggravate this country's balance of payments problems.

With the economic arguments blunted, there remains the politics. Here the central fact is that regular budgetary charges combine with the growing costs of the Great Society programs and of the Vietnam war to yield the likelihood of budgetary deficits in the neighborhood of $8 to $10 billion for this year and next. In that situation, the President has three choices.

TAX INCREASE HONEST

He can send up a budget embodying the deficits, and leave it up to the congressional primitives to cut his Great Society program to pieces. He can himself cut down on Great Society spending. Or he can maintain most of the present programs, and make up the difference with a small tax increase.

To me anyway, the case for the third alternative is very clear. Apart from the need to preserve the Great Society programs, a tax increase is the honest, and if I may say so, the moral, thing to do.

Rightly or wrongly, there is a feeling abroad in the land that things are not quiet on the up-and-up in Washington. Wrongly perhaps, but without much doubt, that suspicion will only be enhanced if the President comes to the Congress in a period of manifest prosperity with a budget that is out of balance.

But by going to the American people with a candid statement of what he needs and of how much it costs, the President can, I think, restore confidence. He will be able to show even the crudest fundamentalists that his administration does not seek the unthought ease of life — something for nothing. He will take, I think, a long step toward closing the credibility gap.

Is Civilized Hunting Perversion of Sport?

Editor, PostCrescent:

How civilized can we get?

The Hunter, as we have been taught, killed for food as a means to survival. In the last quarter of a century it has become much more a greedy, money-making monster. Our civilization legalizes anyone having the price of a license gun and shells to go out and kill; many killers or civilized hunters mutilate their prey, leaving carcasses to rot if the wrong sex or size or if it wanders too far to chase.

Most of us feel the monetary value to the state, etc., is too much to fight. But, putting a young mother behind bars because she sought food for her family is indicative that we should examine the meaning of "a hunter" and "proper season."

I feel she exerted her God-given right. Her right is far greater than the one bought by "the man with the dollar."

Many of us have been taught "God helps them that help themselves." She did this and is now separated from her babies at Christmas.

Wisconsin Report

Idea of One Higher Education System Is Gaining Converts

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — From any except a parochial viewpoint, the separation of the administrations in Wisconsin public higher education contains strange contradictions. There is widespread public discussion of the need for streamlining of government operations in general as they become almost prohibitively costly to the taxpayer. But in the most dramatically exploding service among all of them, tax-supported education, there is virtual silence.

Wynngaard

Yet there are signs that within the higher education officeholding ranks there is some realistic if private reflection about what the future may hold in administrative methods. The other day a long-term projection report of the state university system allowed that a union of that system and the growing University of Wisconsin may be inevitable. Moreover, the report said the idea would be reviewed objectively by the university system officers, if it is seriously proposed in the legislature or elsewhere.

Meanwhile from the University of Wisconsin head offices the impression is given that the top men there are not as worried about the possibility as were some of their predecessors. It may be that there is such a huge and infinitely expandable sellers' market in the college business that the institutional fears of earlier eras have quieted.

It is likely, therefore, that if the state administration or a representative block of responsible legislators should revive the fusion plan and a single board direction of the far-flung educational empire supported by the state treasury it would have a far better response than the last time the issue flared in state capital politics.

The men on the public stage change places so frequently — and it is probably an indication of the vitality of the political process — that the history of the violent "integration" fight in higher education in 1955 is infrequently remembered. The essential fact of that ancient collision of the state university and the University of Wisconsin systems was that the former wanted union, while the University and its allies fiercely and successfully fought off the plan.

But the victory for the Madison educators was not complete. A compromise evolved in the form of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, as a kind of overseer of both systems, with explicit authority over curriculum growth, capital planning, and operations budgets. A year ago the legislature showed its doubts about the independence of the overseer by reorganizing it to give private citizen members, rather than system regents, majority control. A visible stiffening of supervision has resulted, and especially since the selection several months ago of Angus Rothwell, the former state superintendent of schools, as staff director.

TIME NEEDED FOR PROOF

Mr. Rothwell and the new board are entitled to time in which to demonstrate their qualities and to prove that they are truly independent of the wishes and ambitions and occasional rivalries of the subject systems. But they are probably aware that there are reservations among attentive onlookers. The authorization of new state university and UW centers, as one example, appears to betray negotiated allocations and agreements, consciously or unconsciously. There is no way to avoid jurisdictional rivalries, as in the legislative fighting about the new institutions at Green Bay and Kenosha a year ago, or more plainly in the new state university document outlining graduate school expansionist plans.

Aside from performance, which remains to be tested, the Coordinating Committee device has failed in public acceptance. It is not yet recognized. Its members are in effect regents of the higher education system. But in prestige and identity they continue to be inferior to the system "regents" of both systems, among legislators as well as among citizens.

Strictly Personal

Eight People Mixed Up in Each Marriage

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"Why does marriage seem to be such a difficult relationship?" asked a college boy in a bull-session we were having after a lecture. "I look around, at my parents and their friends, and it's a rocky road for almost all of them."

Harris

I couldn't refrain from quoting myself — an insufferable habit, but occasionally a time-saving one. "A man," I said, "thinks he is marrying one woman and soon finds, to his bewilderment, that he has married at least four."

"How do you mean that?" he asked.

"Well, there is first of all the woman he thought she was; secondly, there is the woman she thought she was; thirdly, there is the woman she really is, and last, there is the woman she would like to be."

Then I added hastily: "And, of course, the same is true for the man in reverse. So that there are at least eight 'people' involved in the marital relationship — and that makes a pretty crowded house, even without children."

"It's much too crowded," he agreed. "But what do you do with, and how do you handle, all those people in one marriage?"

"It seems to me," I replied, "that two of them on each side must go. For instance, on the woman's side, both the woman he thought she was, and the woman she thought she was, are figments of their imagination and not real people at all. They are just cluttering the landscape."

"Those two," I went on, "are the ones to get rid of. The ones that have to be kept are the woman she really is, and the woman she would like to be."

"But isn't the latter also a figment of the imagination?" he inquired. "What we would like to be is not what we really are."

"It is and it isn't," I said. "There is always a core of reality in that we would like to be — it represents a potentiality we recognize in ourselves. Unless a marriage can nourish and keep alive this potentiality, it has little to grow on."

"What happens in those rocky marriages you mention," I continued, "is that the spouses reject what their partners really are and what they would like to be, and resent the fact that they don't live up to the idealized fantasy that ignited the whole romance in the first place. They try to make the real person conform to the fantasy, instead of giving up the fantasy and adjusting to the real person. And the first, and hardest, job is knowing and accepting who the real person is among the many ghosts and visions flitting around the house."

Gov. Romney Called 'Taft With a Heart'

Personality Gives Him Advantages Over Dick Nixon

BY ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
NEW YORK — A few moments after Gov. George Romney of Michigan finished addressing the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) here last week, a prominent southern industrialist, emerged from the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria smiling broadly.

"He's Taft with a heart," gushed the businessman, a man of markedly conservative views. "I mean he has the principles of old Bob Taft but a lot more warmth — a lot more heart."

Such sentiments at the NAM convention were by no means isolated. Similar enthusiasm for Romney was even more noticeable the night before in Charlotte, N.C., when he addressed the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce and a rally of local Republicans.

Goldwater Country

What made this reception particularly significant was that sites for Romney's first two speeches following the Nov. 8 election — the NAM and the South — are located in what used to be Goldwater country. The sign of any Romney support there indicates that the struggle for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination is no simplistic right-vs.-left struggle.

Moderate Romney, of course, never will be the majority choice of the South or the right-wing business community. However, the fact that he has any significant strength there — pointed up in Charlotte and New York but also revealed by spot checks around the country — produces two important conclusions.

First, Barry Goldwater's continuing war of words against Romney and the publication of their 1964 correspondence (unfortunate in the eyes of the Romney camp) has not bothered many rank-and-file conservatives. Nor are they particularly troubled that Romney failed to support Goldwater as the party's presidential nominee in 1964.

Nixon In Trouble

Second, Richard M. Nixon is clearly in trouble as Goldwater's appointed heir. Many conservative foot soldiers who marched for Goldwater two years ago simply reject his tacit advice to march now for Nixon and, paradoxically, look toward his arch intra-party rival.

One explanation of this phenomenon can be found in the remarks of a banking official who attended the Charlotte dinner. After allowing that he couldn't see all that much difference between the views of Romney and Nixon, he told us he preferred Romney because "he's got the glamour, and that's what it takes to win."

This reflects a view heard particularly often at the NAM meeting by business conservatives. They all see President Johnson in deep trouble in 1968, and many just can't envision Nixon as the man to take advantage of it.

Moreover, Romney — unlike other moderate Republican leaders such as William Scranton and Nelson Rockefeller — is naturally addicted to the rhetoric that can make a conservative audience come up cheering. His denunciations of federal power and the Great Society are so convincing that last week's audience in Charlotte and New York, respectively, could excuse his attacks on the dogma of states rights and the NAM's pest record of obstructionism.

Indeed, unlike Rockefeller and Scranton in 1966, Romney's deepest problem may not be the antipathy of the Republican right but may rest elsewhere.

Rambling Remarks

As much as his speeches last week cheered their conservative listeners, they contained the inelegance and imprecision of phrase that have characterized his prepared remarks. Similarly, his impromptu remarks to press conferences on national and international subjects were fuzzy and rambling. In sum, his first post-election outing widened rather than closed his gap with the intellectual community and mass media.

This inadequacy of both prepared speech and press conference is symptomatic of a slower-than-expected development of the Romney-for-President staff since Nov. 8. The deficiencies in research and speech writing are matched by lack of attainment in state-by-state organization.

Consider North Carolina, site of Romney's success last week. While Nixon can count on allies inside the state party structure ("We feel secure with Dick," says one such party leader), Romney must start from scratch at the precinct level. And the hard work needed to utilize Romney's surprising potential in Goldwater country has not yet even started.

Present Court Most Activist In History

Justices Concerned With Governorship,
Consider Love

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The evolution of the Supreme Court — its willingness to plunge into the various thickets of American existence — has been a slow process.

From the beginning the court had the power to make decisions, and often did, broad enough to affect all American life although some of them at the time may have seemed too remote to give that impression.

But how deeply the court got into the everyday scene with its multitude of problems, including very human ones, depended on the members of the court at any one period: their philosophy about the role of the court, their courage, timidity, conservatism, liberalism, perhaps intellectual vigor, and the mood of the times.

All Directions

The present court is the most activist in history, leaving its imprint in all directions. Its willingness to move in on civil rights, school prayers or legislative reapportionment are just the spectacular examples.

It has shown an equal readiness to tackle a wide range of dilemmas — personal, political, or economic although all of them have a constitutional question within them — and its actions Monday were a good example.

It unsnarled Georgia's recent election dispute — should Democrat Lester G. Maddox or Republican Howard Callaway be governor? — by ruling the state legislature can decide.

Democratic Legislation

This was probably the Supreme Court doing the deciding since the Georgia Legislature's House which meets Jan. 9 is overwhelmingly Democratic. A minority of the court thought there should be a run-off election.

Then the court dipped into the very human problem of people in love and people's rights.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Loving — he is white, she is part Indian, part Negro — went to live in Virginia where they were arrested, convicted, and sentenced to a year in jail under the state law forbidding the marriage of white and "colored" persons. They fought the conviction.

They argued on a number of grounds: that the Virginia law violates their constitutional guarantee to equal protection, to privacy, to choose a marriage partner, and other civil rights. The Supreme Court agreed to consider their case.

Similar Laws

It should have a wide effect, besides a human one, since there are 16 states, in addition to Virginia, which have similar laws.

Then the court closed doors and seemed to open some.

It flattened Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa as he has never been flattened before by upholding his 1964 jury-tampering conviction.

On top of this the court gave police a bit of a go-ahead for tricks and snooping, electronic and otherwise.

It upheld the jury-tampering conviction of Z.T. Osborn Jr., one of Hoffa's lawyers, convicted of trying to bribe a jury member with $10,000 to free his boss.

Osborn claimed he was snared by an electronic "snooper," arguing that the supposed go-between with the juror had a hidden tape-recorder when he talked to Osborn. The go-between was a detective.

The court approved, 8 to 1, a government agent's posing as a potential customer to gain entry, without a search warrant, to obtain evidence for conviction of a narcotics peddler, Duke Lewis of Boston.

Nine Missing, One Dead in Copter Crash

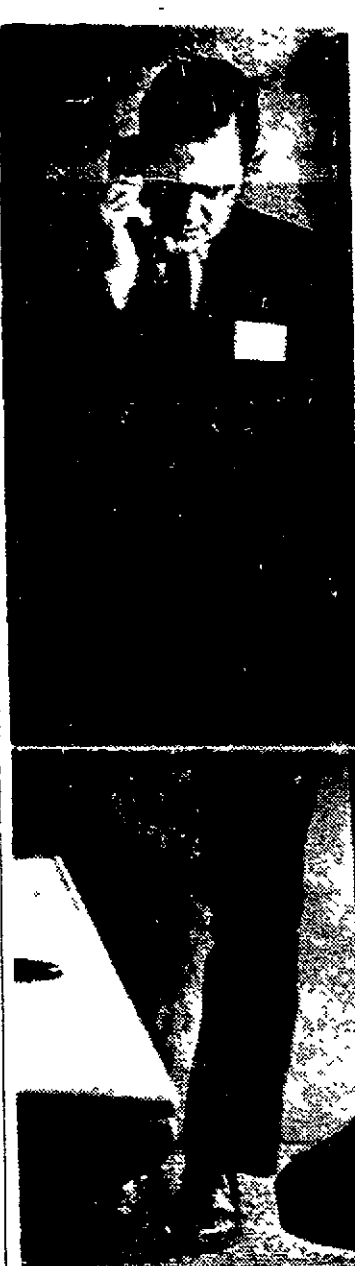

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — One body was recovered and nine Navy men were missing today after the crash of a helicopter 34 miles offshore, the Navy said.

Navy spokesmen said the jet-powered, twin-rotor Sea Knight crashed without warning Monday four miles from its destination, the assault ship Tripoli.

An extensive air-sea search has been launched and the body of three crewmen.

Lt. J.G. Lawrence P. Beam, 25, Imperial Beach, Calif., was found during the night. Among the missing were Capt. John R. McKee, 30, Coronado, Calif., commanding officer of Amphibious Squadron 9 based at Coronado The Navy said the Ind. as. aircraft commander, missing men were all from California.

"We've got three 'copters, two destroyers and the Tripoli in the search area," a spokesman told. "The weather is real good. Lunt, 29, Williamsport, Pa.

Georgia Republican gubernatorial candidate Howard "Bo" Callaway nervously clicks his feet as he hears of a Supreme Court ruling in Georgia's disputed election. The court said the legislature could decide between Callaway and Democrat Lester Maddox, neither of whom received a majority on Nov. 8. Callaway had a small plurality. (AP Wirephoto)

Hortonville Youth Killed In Car Crash

The Outagamie County road toll now is 21 for the year, three less than the 1965 count on Dec. 13.

Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said Richards died of severe head injuries. The youth never regained consciousness, Kemps said.

Fair Condition

Richards was riding in a car driven by Gary L. Komp, 18, route 1, Hortonville, who is in fair condition today at New London Community Hospital. Although police had not learned the full extent of his injuries, it is believed he suffered face and head lacerations and chest injuries. Police were unable to question Komp.

Richards

Both youths were taken to the hospital by Borchardt and Moder Ambulance of Hortonville.

Outagamie County traffic police said the 1957 auto Komp was driving was northbound on M when it apparently went out of control, crossed onto the left side of the narrow road and struck the abutment nearly head on. The car then slid sideways, completely blocking the road.

Police said the car was demolished. Richards' head crashed through the windshield.

Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Richards, is a 1965 graduate of Hortonville High School. He worked with his father at Melray, Inc. at Hortonville.

Richards body was released to the Borchardt and Moder Funeral Home.

HUSTONVILLE, Ky. (AP) — An Air Force B58 bomber, returning to its base Monday night after a seven-hour practice bombing run, slammed into a hillside east of here, killing all on board. The plane crashed with a "screaming and popping sound" and then disintegrated. Scraps of wreckage were blown 400 feet from the scene.

Those aboard were identified as: as. aircraft commander, Maj. Richard F. Blakeslee, 42, Mentor-on-the-Lake, Ohio; navigator Capt. Floyd E. Acker, 33, destroyers and the Tripoli in the search area." a spokesman told. "The weather is real good. Lunt, 29, Williamsport, Pa.

will have ample opportunity to ask for revisions of the new campus building budget proposals, as its own planners refine their reports and draw sketches for needed structures for the 1969 opening of the new institutions.

Leonard's motion to cut the university's request was supported by Knowles, Gerald Emmer, his representative on the commission; Sen. Chester Dempsey, Hartland, and Assemblyman David Martin, Neenah. The three dissenting votes came from Sen. Frank Christopherson, Superior, and Assemblymen Frank Nikolay, Abotsford, and Angelo Greco, Milwaukee, all Democrats.

Greco is a member of the Leonard subcommittee, but did not attend its weekend meeting which brought about the budget-cutting proposal.

Repudiates Legislature

Greco angrily declared the cut-back amounted to "trying to feed the elephant with peanuts." He said the smaller capital amount proposed repudiated the decision of the Legislature that the two new schools should be "major institutions."

"Either we're going to build major schools or we're not," he said.

Charles Engman, University of Wisconsin vice president for business affairs, and President Fred H. Harrington repeated their earlier arguments that a new school must have especially attractive and generous facilities in order to draw faculties.

A new school is a "delicate organism," explained Engman, without traditions, or an established image, or neighborhood loyalties, or alumni. Thus it may have faculty recruiting troubles, and without a superior faculty it won't be able to draw the students to justify its being, he explained.

Reasonable Figure

But Leonard was adamant. "We've never seen a building educate a student yet," he said. He repeated he is merely trying to keep the starting cost in buildings per student to a reasonable figure, and if the University planners do their job adequately they can devise with the money proposed the central and essential buildings upon which the campuses can be indefinitely expanded as their enrollments grow.

Greco added, "You won't get the students without the staff, and you won't get the staff if you pinch pennies at the outset." He said he had learned on a California college tour that new campuses tend to grow more rapidly in enrollments than planners anticipate.

Leonard said his program would permit, unless modified, the construction of one or two essential buildings in each campus in the first stage of development, instead of the three or four at each that the university had asked.

Shouldn't Apply

But Engman said the university's usual space guidelines are not meant to apply to new institutions and are meaningless for the first four years of a school's operations because of the natural lag in beginning enrollments. He said the state must plan now for the facilities that will be needed to handle an estimated 3,109 boys and girls at the Green Bay branch in 1971, and 3,870 at the Kenosha campus.

There was no open reference to the budget breakdown for the two schools during the commission discussion, but earlier estimates indicate the Kenosha allocation will be slightly higher than Green Bay's. Thus it may be estimated that the Green Bay campus share of the budget request, as reduced, will be about $6 million, unless the commission, Knowles or the Legislature reconsider.

Leonard explained that one of the reasons for his cautious attitude is an awareness that the Legislature again will be pressed heavily for faculty salary increases at heavy cost to the state budget, and that faculty is more important than the quality of physical facilities as far as the quality of higher education is concerned.

UW to Buy Facilities at Stoughton

MADISON (AP)—The University of Wisconsin won state approval Monday to buy the Midwestern Universities Research Association facilities near Stoughton.

MURA is to be disbanded next June after 11 years of atomic research. The Stoughton site is one of six finalists in national competition for a $375 million atomic accelerator.

"Even if the big accelerator doesn't come, we still want this property, these buildings, these people, because they're useful for university industry research," said Fred Harvey Harrington, president of the university.

The State Building Commission, by a unanimous vote, gave Republican National Chairman Ray Bliss, second from right, presides at a news conference after the first session of a meeting of the Republican Coordinating Committee Monday in Washington. The GOP policy making council produced a declaration warning the Communist world not to misinterpret the outcome of the November election as a repudiation of current U.S. policy in Vietnam. Other speakers are, from left, Gov. John Love of Colorado, Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan and Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois. (AP Wirephoto)

Six to be Hired To Keep Check on Nursing Homes

MADISON (AP)—The State Board of Government Operations has authorized the hiring of six persons by the Public Welfare Department to prevent nursing homes from charging excessive rates to patients receiving public assistance.

The board approved a request for $29,273 for the new positions Monday after it was told the department had received complaints from northern counties about possibly unreasonable rates.

The board was assured the complaints described as a "couple of instances," had been investigated and corrected where necessary.

He said new personnel would be "used as a check on the reasonableness of charges made for public assistance."

The program providing assistance for persons in qualified nursing homes was established by the Legislature last spring in response to recommendations by the governor's medicare task force.

Farm Employment Below 5 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports that farm employment late in November dropped below the 5 million mark for the first time.

The department said the authority to spend $448,200 to acquire "the physical assets" of MURA.

at this period in modern times. Family and hired workers totaled 4.85 million compared with 5.06 million a similar period last year and 5.94 million for the 1960-64 November average.

Auto Safety Checks Set For Month

MADISON (AP)—Motorists in Wisconsin, speeding toward a record highway death toll will be subject to five-minute safety inspections of their vehicles during the rest of December.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles announced the step Monday as one more effort in his "operation survival" campaign to slice the number of fatalities that threaten to push the number of deaths past the record 1964 mark.

The spot inspections, to be conducted when favorable weather exists, would include checks of drivers' license, lights, directional signals, windshield wipers, foot brakes and other equipment.

Knowles said citations or correction tickets will be issued when violations are detected.

The governor also announced the State Highway Patrol will put in 30 per cent more time cruising the roads and have 10 new unmarked cars.

In a letter to State Supreme Court Chief Justice George Currie, Knowles asked that "some procedure" be set up to uniformly apply the state's traffic laws.

He noted some courts were arbitrarily reducing some charges against motorists.

Surgery Won't Cure Ruby, Doctors Reveal

Warren Commission as President John F. Kennedy's assassin.

"It is incurable by surgery," the doctor said. "Surgery might be used for benefit, but not for a cure."

Barnett said that surgery could not cure Ruby because the cancer has spread from the still unknown primary source into the lymph system, which is somewhat like the blood vessel system and goes to all parts of the body.

'Could Be Cancer'

Barnett also said that tests on Ruby show that his lungs have been infiltrated by "small nodules." He said the "nodules" could be cancer or they could be something else.

He added that extensive tests are continuing.

Barnett said drug therapy can be successful in suppressing the growth of a tumor and can alleviate pain.

He said Ruby's condition remained "relatively stable. He is alert and in reasonably good spirits."

Son of Eugene O'Neill Leaps Out of Window
NEW YORK (AP) — Shane O'Neill, 48, son of the late playwright Eugene O'Neill, was reported in critical condition today after jumping from a second-floor window of a Manhattan station house.

O'Neill had been brought to the police station after his arrest late Sunday night on the lower East Side for possession of drugs and marijuana.

Nothing Found Missing In Village Break-in LITTLE CHUTE — Nothing was reported missing in a break-in at the Little Chute Bottling Co., 715 N. Jefferson St., which took place sometime over the weekend.

Entry was made by breaking a glass in a rear window. The owner reported nothing else disturbed.

Dean Asks Policy Stand On Drugs at Lawrence Proposed Statement Warns of Immediate Suspension, Dismissal for Possession, Use

Dr. Francis L. Broderick, dean of Lawrence and Downer Colleges at Lawrence University, has made public a proposed policy statement on drugs and

Dr. Broderick directed the statement to President Curtis W. Tarr with the request that it be discussed by various administrative officers, councils and student groups immediately after the Christmas holidays.

The statement says in part: "Lawrence University views the possession or use of drugs and hallucinogens by its students as a serious interference with the purposes of the university. It regards the introduction of these items onto the campus as conduct at variance with the aims of the university community."

Dr. Broderick acknowledged differences of opinion that exist about dangers inherent in specific drugs, but stated: "Nevertheless as a university community we are not, and cannot be, indifferent to the great bulk of medical opinion that drugs create a danger to individuals and to society that justifies preventative legislation."

Warning to Students
He continued: "Therefore we are anxious for our undergraduates to understand in advance that Lawrence will treat the possession or use of drugs on this campus as a major offense against this community, an act that, when established in proper hearing, will make an offender liable to immediate suspension or dismissal from the university regardless of what other action may be pending against him by the authorities of the state."

"The immediate occasion for this statement is the recent incident on campus involving the possession of marijuana by an undergraduate. At the risk of having its action misunderstood both by the student body and by the community of Appleton, Lawrence avoided taking any disciplinary action until the civil courts had dealt finally with the case. We shall not exercise similar restraint in the future," Broderick wrote.

The student involved in the marijuana case was Robert Uhe, a sophomore from Northbrook, Ill., who was suspended from Lawrence following dismissal of criminal charges against him on the grounds that the search warrant under which the evidence was obtained was issued on the basis of hearsay and incompetent evidence.

According to an unsigned article in the Dec. 10 issue of the campus newspaper, "The Lawrentian, student reporters have discovered that 'drugs are more prevalent on campus this year than at any time in the recent past,' with an estimated 100 students, or 8 per cent of the student body having 'tried drugs on campus sometime this year.' About 25 or 30, according to estimates given to The Lawrentian 'represent students who return with any regularity,' and 12 to 15 as the number of 'hard core' who return to drugs once a week or once in two weeks."

"Thus far," the Lawrentian states, "almost all of the use of illegal drugs at Lawrence seems to be limited to marijuana." Several caches of marijuana were alleged to exist on the campus at present. No single source of supply was identified, although it was stated that there are sources in the Appleton area. According to student reports, three salesmen or "pushers" have visited the campus this fall.

Weapons Barred
Soviet Outer Space Aim Opposite of Earth Goal

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

What the Soviet Union says it is willing to do about outer space somehow fails to square with what Moscow repeatedly says it intends to do on earth.

Moscow has agreed on terms of a treaty barring mass destruction weapons from outer space, but Soviet propaganda pursues the theme of "liberation struggles," aimed at world domination by the "working class," by which the Communists mean themselves.

Even as the space agreement was being hammered out, Pravda, the Communist party paper, was carrying instructive articles for Communists, harking back to the "historic significance" of the 1957 and 1960 Moscow declarations.

Those two world Communist conferences laid down a blueprint for Communist expansion by use of the "liberation struggle" device.

As Pravda itself said, the two declarations provided "the genuine charter of the world Communist movement" and the theoretical base for "a successful struggle against imperialism."

Last week, Pravda's editorial noted that the Soviet line was aimed at "securing a peaceful international atmosphere."

This, it said, would increase "the opportunity for the victorious development of the class struggle by the proletariat and the struggle of oppressed peoples for their social and national liberation in any form, including through wars of liberation."

If that is the real aim, then an agreement on the use of outer space has less meaning than elation from Washington might suggest. The Soviet line, as sketched by Pravda, implies that peaceful coexistence and lessened tension in the West are components of plans to quicken violent revolution.

'By All Means'
Soviet statements, however, must also be examined against Moscow's current problems in the Red world. The expressed determination to pursue "liberation struggles" by all means, including wars, can be defensive, in the light of Red Chinese hostility to the Kremlin and the contest for influence within the Communist world itself.

In this context, the fact that Moscow reached agreement on space treaty terms may be as important as the agreement itself. Peking and its allies will cite new evidence that Moscow and Washington are plotting to dominate the world and prevent others from a free hand with space or nuclear weapons.

The defensive note shone through the Pravda editorial. A point at issue between Moscow and Peking is which of them abandoned the 1957 and 1960 world Communist blueprints.

Moscow's position is uncomfortable. It is trying to build a domestic economy which some day might rival those in the West. It is reluctant now to gamble with violence and instability. Yet it tries to convince Communists that it remains the fountainhead of revolution through liberation wars.

The Soviet Union leaves the impression that, in its present situation, it is interested in security and stability while it accomplishes certain goals.

This approach arouses suspicions on both sides. Impatient Communists suspect Moscow of abandoning them for the sake of Soviet national interests. At the same time, Moscow fails to remove deep-rooted suspicions in advanced countries that it is genuinely interested in lasting peace.

Woman Presents Another Side To Question of Faithfulness

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was amused by your statement that the man who kissed his wife good-bye at the station every morning wasn't necessarily a true blue husband. You may be right, but why doesn't somebody say something about the suburban wife? How true blue is she?

Landers
What goes on in my little neighborhood after husbands leave for work would make Peyton Place look like a Sunday school picnic. My next door neighbor has been spending four mornings a week with an insurance adjuster. (Just how long does it take for a person to get her claim adjusted anyway?)
The lady across the street fixes lunch every day for the real estate man who sold her the house four months ago. The

Figures, Coined Devices Add to Memory Bank

NEW YORK — You probably know a man with a good memory — and envy him. He remembers names and faces, appointments and all the boss' instructions. He makes good use of his afterhours studying for advancement, for he easily stores lessons and magazine articles in his head. Such a man has a decided edge in the flight toward success.
The following hints may be helpful:
Get the name and understand it clearly.
Repeat the name immediately after hearing it.
Form associations, such as between a person's appearance and his name (or other associative reference — colors, occupations, or even certain times of the year: Good morning, Mr. Spring!).
If the name has no meaning, find a substitute (Bain or pain; Jarly — jolly; etc.).
Repeat the name as often as possible during the conversation.
Make a mental drawing, and add the name of your drawing. By making the drawing as silly as possible, you are in effect putting your daydreams to work for you.
Cultivate Memory
"Memory plays an important part in the cultivation of the 'number sense,'" Dr. M. N. Young points out in his book, "How To Develop An Exceptional Memory." Figures must be visualized and often retained as on a mental blackboard, registering and storing information like a high-speed random-access memory unit, only to be eradicated when the immediate need for them is past.
Author and Lecturer Dr.

Dear Monkey: O.K. then, go ahead and watch 'em. I haven't time for such stuff. Who does your housework anyway?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing about the woman who had asthma and hives and wondered what the doctor meant when he said she got them from her husband. She was reluctant to accept the doctor's diagnosis because she couldn't believe asthma and hives were "contagious."

Her letter was way out but your answer was perfect. I loved what you said about ulcers. And you were so right. Ulcers are a sign of interpersonal problems but it isn't always the husband or the wife, Ann. It can be somebody else who lives under the roof. Many married couples have a mother or a mother-in-law or a stepbrother or a great-aunt living with them. These additions can be real trouble and often there is no way to get rid of them short of a family rupture. You have done a lot of good by declaring that a husband and wife owe their first allegiance to one another, and a third party who makes trouble for them should not be tolerated. I know about these things because I have both ulcers and hives — and a relative living with us. — X. Perienched

Dear X: Thanks for your letter, and now that you know the score, don't just sit there — do something.
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Whenever we are invited to a small dinner party I bake pastry or an elegant dessert. Invariably the hostess says thank you (in haste), and puts my treat out of sight.
Dear X: When I entertain and someone brings a treat I always serve it along with my own dessert and I thank the person in the presence of the others. It occurred to me that perhaps I am being tactless since the guests who did not bring anything might feel uncomfortable. Please set me straight. — European Dear European: It is not essential to bring a home-made goody when you come to a dinner party. Apparently you enjoy doing so, and I would not deny you the pleasure by suggesting that you stop. But to expect the hostess to serve your dessert is asking too much. Most people don't need ONE dessert, much less two.
Liquor can ruin your mind, your body and your life. To learn the booby traps of teenage drinking, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.
Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
